VERY HEAVY VOTE IS CAST TODAY

Records Show Three-Fourths of
Number Polled Were in by
One O'clock.

ELECTION DAY VERY QUIET

"Drys" Make 21 Challenges During
The Forenoon--Women Play
Prominent Part.

At one o'clock today three-fourths of the polled vote had been cast in the local option election. The poll books showed a total possible vote of 1652 in the six precincts, and near one o'clock 1266 votes had been cast. This left 386 votes out.

Up until one o'clock twenty-one challenges had been made by the "drys" in all precincts. No challenges by the "wets" were reported. Of the twenty-one, eleven were successful and the challenged voters turned away without voting. The others were either sworn in by a freeholder or themselves.

The weather was a very disagreeable. The day dawned cloudy and damp, and before ten o'clock a slight mist was in the air. By noon rain was falling. The "drys" contended the weather portended victory for them, and the "wets" made the same contention.

There were very few people who would risk any prophesies. The partisans, of course, were claiming victory, but the claims were all discreet. Some persons asserted the vote would result in a "dry" victory by a majority of 250. Other estimated that it would be close "dry" victory. There were many voters who believed the prospects of the "wets" were better than they were a week ago.

The women played an important part in today's election, more prominent than in any previous temperance vote. There were at least a dozen women at each one of the voting places, and in some instances there were as many as thirty. They served hot coffee and sandwiches to all men at the voting places free of charge.

Where no shelter was convenient, many women exposed themselves to the severe weather. At one polling place a tent was erected to keep out the wind and rain, and at another a little shack was built out of lumber.

The women worked vigilantly "electioneering" for "dry" votes. There were many cases where a crowd of women besieged a voter and made a stirring appeal for him to vote "yes." They were out bright and early with the opening of the polls, and vowed to remain until the polls were closed.

A large crowd attended the all-day prayer meeting at the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. A. W. Jamieson presided and women were in the church continuously from early in the morning, and expected to remain until the polls closed. The Rushville Christian Association had charge of the services during the noon hour.

At one o'clock there were 192 votes cast out of a possible 230 in precinct 1, with voting booth at the old Catholic church. The "drys" challenged six. One of the swore himself in, three did not vote and two challenges were withdrawn.

In precinct 2, with a voting place at the court house assembly room, 142 out of a possible 210 shortly after dinner. No challenges were made by either side up to this time.

There were 181 out of 238, which had been polled, cast at the back of the Windsor hotel, which is precinct 3. The "drys" challenged three vo-

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Thackery is Held at Clarksburg.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Thackery, who died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. C. A. Alexander, living in Clarksburg, was held at the residence yesterday and the body was taken to Napoleon, Decatur county, for burial. Her demise was due to illness brought on by injuries she received when she fell in her room a few weeks ago. Mrs. Thackery would have been eighty-two years old the fifteenth of this month. She is survived by three daughters and a son.

WILL PARSONS BE OUSTED TONIGHT?

Rumored This Afternoon That Organization Democrats Will Take
This Step to Gain Point.

IN OUSTING SUPT. A. T. MAHIN

There was a well defined rumor being circulated late this afternoon to the effect that the Democratic organization members of the city council would adopt drastic means at the regular meeting tonight to gain its victory in ousting A. T. Mahin from the superintendency of the water and light plant.

It was reported that the mayor and two Democrats on the council, with the mayor, propose to declare Dr. C. H. Parsons' seat vacant, because of his absence, and elect a man in his place who will answer their beck and call in order that their action in removing Mr. Mahin will not be jeopardized. Many say such a thing would be illegal.

It has been feared by the organization, that, upon the return of Dr. Parsons, he would introduce a motion to remove Frank Brown, the organization's appointee and reinstate Mr. Mahin, and he would be supported by the two Republican members, which would be a majority. It was hinted before the last meeting, when Mr. Mahin was ousted, that the Democrats contemplated declaring Parsons' seat vacant.

NEGRO SENTENCED TO PRISON TERM

Arthur Lowery, Who Stole Valuables
From Harry Cunningham of
Knightstown, Gets 1 to 8 Years.

HE THREATENED TO ESCAPE

After being sentenced to serve from one to eight years in Jeffersonville, on a plea of guilty to the charge of robbery, Arthur Lowery the colored man, threatened to make good an escape from Sheriff Kirk, says the Newcastle Times. It is understood that he has said, in effect, that the sheriff would never deliver him to the prison authorities. That idle boast did not cause the sheriff any uneasiness and he will leave for the prison south tomorrow morning. Lowery is diminutive negro. His feet lacked about four inches of touching the floor while sitting on the witness chair. He stole a watch and money from Harry Cunningham, of Knightstown, last spring and escaped.

Lowery was also fined $25 and disfranchised for three years.

JACKSON'S BILL BECOMES A LAW

Measure Providing For Tax Levy To
Build Agricultural Schools is
Signed by Governor

A UNIFORM TEXT BOOK LAW

Ralston Signs Bill Allowing Earnings of Municipal Plant to be Put in General Fund.

Governor Ralston has signed the bill introduced by Senator Cary Jackson of this city. The bill provides methods by which township trustee may raise money to erect schools in which to teach agriculture and domestic science on petition of a certain number in the township. The bill carried an emergency clause and became effective the instant.

The bill is a companion measure with the vocational bill, which became a law February 22. The provisions of the Jackson bill are duplicated in some respects in the vocational training bill. The bill will allow the trustees to issue bonds for the erection of the schoolhouses and levy a tax, with the consent of the advisory board, not to exceed 1 per cent. of the total taxable property in the township. An emergency clause is attached to the bill.

The Governor also has signed the Voris house bill, legalizing the issues of highway bonds, issued by county commissioners or ordered sold by county councils, when the purchase price has been paid and received in good faith.

The Governor has also signed the Curtis bill for uniform high school text books. It provides that text books in high schools shall be selected for five-year periods. The state board of education is to sit as a commission to select the books.

The uniform text book idea in high schools, so far as it applies to Indiana, was advanced by Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, and was endorsed by various educational interests of the state. The bill gives the state board power to select single text books in the following subjects: Algebra, geometry, commercial arithmetic, history--United States, ancient, mediaeval and modern, civil government, physical geography, commercial geography, history of English literature, history of American literature, English composition and rhetoric, Latin, beginning Latin, Latin grammar, prose composition, Caesar, Cicero, Virgil, German grammar.

The bill also gives the board power to select four elective text books in each of the following subjects: Botany, zoology, physics, chemistry, agricultural botany. Power is also given the board to select single or elective text books in any additional subjects, whenever any high school curriculum shall include such a subject and the state board believes its use should become state-wide.

The provisions of the old text book law of 1889, which provides similar powers for the state board in regard to common school text books are made to apply in the new act wherever possible. In that law is a provision that specifies that school book companies shall bid on books selected on a basis of furnishing them to the schools of the state for a period of five years. In case the state board is satisfied to continue the use of books longer than five years it may do so.

The governor has also signed the Van Auker bill, increasing the pay of petit and grand jurors from $2 a day to $2.50 a day, with 5 cents a mile for each mile necessarily traveled in attending the jury sessions.

Another bill, signed by the govern-

CASE TO RECOVER BOND DISMISSED

Suit Against Will Bainbridge, Former
Sheriff Thrown Out of Court
by Prosecutor.

BROUGHT BY JAMES BINGHAM

Grand Jury Found There Was No
Case Against William Hodgkin
For Vote Selling.

A change of venue was taken in two damage cases which were to have been tried today. A change of venue was granted by Judge McGee in the case of the Enterprise Milling company against the Big Four railway and in the case of Rardin against the Big Four. The county to which the cases will be sent has not been made known by the court.

A continuance was granted in the case of James Forbes against the commissioners for the improvement of a highway in Ripley township. The case was taken to the circuit court on an appeal from the commissioners court.

A case which has been pending in court since December 31, 1910, was dismissed by Prosecutor Smith this morning. It was the case of the State of Indiana on the relation of Charles H. Kelso, Thomas J. Humes and Merrill S. Ball, as members of the board of commissioners, against William Bainbridge and his bondsmen, A. L. Winship, A. L. Aldridge, George Havens and Charles A. Frazer.

The case was brought by James Bingham, who was attorney general at that time and was based on the report of the State Board of Accounts which alleged that Bainbridge had misappropriated certain fees while sheriff of this county. The complaint asked $5,000 which was the amount of Bainbridge's bond. Mr. Bainbridge was elected sheriff at the November election in 1902. The other men named in the complaint as defendants along with Bainbridge furnished his bond in the sum of $5,000.

The complaint alleged that Bainbridge while sheriff collected $645.36 in fees which was never accounted for to the board of accounts. Prosecuting attorney dismissed the case after a conference with Attorney General Honan. Mr. Smith was advised that the state could not recover in the suit and the statutes of limitation applied.

The case against William (Jot) Hodgkin, colored, charged with selling his vote was also dismissed by the prosecutor. The grand jury reported that it had investigated the case and found no evidence on which an indictment could be returned. Hodgkin was arrested at the November election on an affidavit filed by Ernest Mull who alleged that he saw Hodgkin receive money while in the Republican headquarters. Hodgkin was arraigned before Mayor Black and waived preliminary hearing.

GRANDDAUGHTER DIES.

Francis Edith McCready, age eight months, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Price, 318 West Tenth street, is dead at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto McCready, in Connersville. Mr. Price was at the child's bedside several days before its demise. The infant was never very strong.

DAMAGE CASE SETTLED.

Newcastle Courier: The suit of Myrtle Russell, who was thrown from a horse on the merry-go-round owned by George Verry of Knightstown, in the summer of 1910, was dismissed on her attorneys. A settlement was made out of court.

WILL PLAY TITLE ROLE

Miss Louise Mauzy to Star in I. U.
Amateur Production.

Miss Louise Mauzy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Mauzy of this city, will play the title role in "Merely Mary Ann," an amateur production which will be staged by Strut and Fret, the dramatic organization of Indiana university where Miss Mauzy is a student. Miss Mauzy's ability has been recognized apparently, from the fact that she had been selected for the leading role. The cast is large and includes many young people living in this part of Indiana.

MANILLA BOY IN REGULAR ARMY DIES

Harry Kuntz, Age 21, Expires at Columbus, O., After Short Illness
With Measles.

FUNERAL WILL BE TOMORROW

Harry Kuntz, age twenty-one years, a resident of Manilla, died of measles at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday according to word received by relatives there.

He was in the regular army service and had been at the Columbus barracks for the past few weeks. He enlisted at Indianapolis, January 27, 1913, and was immediately sent to the barracks for training. He had been there only a short time when he fell ill of the measles. He had almost recovered from the measles when he suffered a relapse and later double-pneumonia developed. His relatives knew of his critical condition and his step-mother, Mrs. Peter Kuntz, and his half-brother, Dale Brooks, of Manilla, were at his bedside when the end came. He is survived, in addition, by a step-sister, Mrs. William Carwine, and a step-brother, Trook Kuntz.

The funeral services will be held at the Manilla Christian church tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock, with the Rev. E. E. Kuntz of Colfax, Ind., officiating. Burial will be made in the German cemetery, four miles south of Manilla. The body was brought to Manilla today.

MEMBER OF BOARD.

Earl H. Payne, president of the Peoples' National bank and the Peoples' Loan & Trust Company, has been appointed by the judge of the Fayette circuit court as a member of the advisory board which will confer with the trustee in the bankruptcy case of the Krell Piano Company of Connersville.

CONTRACT FOR PAVING IS LET

Perkins Street Job Goes to DeGolger
& Co. of Seymour for $40,844.44.

BOARD HAD 3 AWARDS TO MAKE

Bruce Graham Tar Binder Road Contract Given to Walker & Mc-Mahon For $12,740.

About four o'clock this afternoon the commissioners awarded the contract for paving Perkins and parts of adjacent streets with brick to DeGolger & Co., for $40,844.44. Metropolitan brick will be used.

The contract for the Bruce Graham tar binder road was given to Walker & McMahon of Fortville for $12,740. The kind of binder is specified.

The commissioners had three contracts to award this afternoon, and the auditor's office was crowded with contractors from all parts of the state. Thirteen bids were submitted for the Perkins street paving, four on the Thornburg bridge contract and six for the Bruce Graham tar bound road.

The estimates on the paving contract were for many different kinds of brick. The bid with which Metropolitan brick would be used in each case was the highest. This is the quality of brick used on both paving jobs that have been done here.

The following were made on Perkins street, the Metropolitan bid being taken; McKinsey Construction Co., $46,754; Poppiere & Co., $43,140; Daniels, Litz & Douglas, $43,700; Kirkpatrick, $44,500; Miller--on Indiana brick only--$38,295; McGraw & Clinton, $41,288; Torrence, $43,110; Field & Bell, $42,936; Palmer, Moore & Co., $42,489; Adams Construction Co., $46,492; Grant & Graige, $41,850; DeGolger & Co., $49,844; Taber & Hulihan--any brick--$41,987.

The following bids were made on the Graham road, the highest bids being taken as each contractor made different estimates for the use of different kind of binder: Colter & Son, $12,827; Harry McKinsey, $18,821; Ohio Construction Co., $12,095; Fry & Co., $12,700; Walker & McMahon, $12,793; George Stevens, $12,740.

Four bids were submitted on the Thornburg bridge, which is near the Lon Stewart farm, as follows: National Concrete Co., $10,749; Burke Construction Co., $10,650; Cleary & Knert--bid by lineal feet--; Ber-Construction Co., $10,650; Cleary

The commissioners this morning met at the Rush county board of finance. They reported that the

The Power of the Press As An Educator

A great man declared that no hours of his day were better employed or more enjoyable than those which brought him in close touch with people in all walks of life.

Of course, he referred to the hours spent in reading the daily newspaper. The newspaper brings you in touch with people the world over and with the affairs of every country.

Read your newspaper carefully tonight and every night. Discuss its varied subjects at the table, in the evening, or whenever the occasion presents itself. The daily newspaper, with its many excellent features, affords a splendid post-graduate course for grown-ups and gives the children more general information in one evening than they are apt to learn at school in many days.

It will also pay you to read the advertisements closely and constantly every day, for they contain valuable information of new goods and opportunities to economize.

WOODROW WILSON IS PRESIDENT

Inauguration Draws Vast Throng.

GREATEST ON RECORD

Never Has the Capital City Been So Crowded.

MARSHALL VICE PRESIDENT

Former Governor of Indiana Will Preside Over Senate.

Washington, March 4.—The ceremonies incident to the inauguration of the first Democratic president in sixteen years has proved a magnet to draw sightseers from every part of the country, and never has the national capital been so crowded as today. Of course only a portion of the vast throng was able to witness the actual scene when Woodrow Wilson took the oath of office, administered to him by Chief Justice White in the great portico of the capitol, or when Thomas Riley Marshall was sworn in as vice president in the midst of a distinguished company assembled in the senate chamber, but there were enough side features to keep all interested and the restless throng was kept busy.

The quadrennial parade this afternoon, following the inauguration was the great feature, of course, and the line of march was such that all could witness this, the crowning spectacular feature of the day. President Wilson reviewed this parade from a glass enclosure in front of the White House.

Contrary to all inaugural precedent, the crowd which migrated to Washington for the purpose of viewing Mr. Wilson inducted into the presidential chair, arrived a day ahead of time. Sunday night at the Union Terminal station the crowds were so congested within that edifice that on the twenty-seven tracks leading to the concourse at one time thirty-five incoming trains were altogether stalled and so remained for hours. This was the high tide of the inbound flow of holiday-making Americans.

Monday conditions at the intake point were relieved. The congestion had ended, but military and civic organizations, with and without music, were pouring through the station portals. The family crowds, the sightseers, however, were already housed and becoming familiar with the geography of Washington. Ideal March weather with the mercury lingering just below the 50 mark, characterized the whole day.

Pennsylvania avenue bore the appearance of a street fair in a country town. The fakirs were out in force. Flags and banners, canes and whistles, horns and squeaky balloons sold right and left. The characteristic influx of cutups who attend all great gatherings put in their appearance early. The good nature of the crowd is being maintained. The sad misconduct of the policing facilities at the suffragette parade has already been forgotten.

The illumination of Pennsylvania avenue last night was complete, for in addition to the incandescent archways, every room in the public buildings was brilliantly lighted. By the aid of three great naval searchlights, the dome of the capitol, crowned with four huge garrison flags, was made to shine out white and clear against the eastern sky at the end of the avenue. The illumination of the city will be even more pronounced tonight.

The crowd was a sober one. Just why such peaceful conditions have reigned was not disclosed until late. A part of this Democratic throng, according to Washington saloon men has not until now learned "where to get it." The characteristic window emblems of "buffet," "cafe," "sample room," "exchange," and "grill" have been lost on the representatives of the triumphant followers of the Sage of Monticello, and the wondering barkeepers were at a loss to know why. Suddenly a great light dawned and the job printers received rush orders to print yard-wide and yard-high white cards with the legend, in the biggest type in the office, "Bar." Things then got better for the saloons.

FINALLY PITCHED HIM OUT

What Suffragettes Did to This Lone Man Was Plenty.

London, March 4.—One solitary man who succeeded in getting into a meeting of militant suffragettes at the Pavilion theater was roughly handled. The suffragettes immediately took the man in hand. Fifty of them pounced upon him, dragged him around the hall and punched and pinched him. Then they dragged him to the platform for the amusement of the meeting, then threw him to the floor and finally pitched him into the street.

WOODROW WILSON

Twenty-Eighth President of United States of America.

NEWCOMERS GIVEN A WARM WELCOME

First Visit of the Wilsons to the White House.

Washington, March 4.—For the first time in their lives President Elect and Mrs. Wilson entered the White House last evening. It was only for a few minutes, though, to pay their respects to President and Mrs. Taft.

The visit of the incoming president and his wife to their future home was made about an hour after they had arrived in Washington, and had received an enthusiastic official welcome. The call had been prearranged. President Taft at a few minutes after 6 o'clock sent one of the White House automobiles with Colonel Spencer S. Cosby, his military aide, in it, to the Shoreham to get the Wilsons. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson lost no time in entering the White House when the auto whisked them up to the main entrance. Very few persons recognized the incoming president and his wife in their drives to and from the executive mansion, but they were greeted warmly by the crowd in the lobby of the Shoreham.

The special train bearing the president elect and the members of his party arrived in Washington at 4 o'clock. They delayed leaving the train until the 600 Princeton university students who were acting as their escort had debarked and formed themselves in two long lines from the entrance to the station half way back along the length of the train. Crowds let go with cheers the moment the president elect appeared. Mr. Wilson acknowledged the greeting with many waves of his new silk hat.

John A. Wilson, an uncle of the president elect, had engaged the entire fourth floor of the hotel for the accommodation of the Wilson family, and from the time of Mr. Wilson's arrival until he left to pay his respects to President Taft the fourth floor was a very busy place.

It was after midnight when the president elect turned in at the Shoreham for his last night, for at least four years, as a private citizen.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Dispatches to the state department indicate that the trend in Mexico is now toward rapid improvement of conditions in that country.

The government has filed suit in the United States district court of New York for the dissolution of the American Coal Products company and subsidiary corporations, known as the coal tar trust.

One of President Taft's last official acts was to remove from office two members of the United States board of general appraisers located at New York, Thaddeus S. Sharrett and Roy N. Chamberlain, because of malfeasance in office.

Near Lexington, Ky., Silas Williams, a sixteen-year-old negro, attempted to assault the wife of Lee Moffett, his employer. Her aunt, Mrs. Susan Black, came to her assistance and was killed by the negro, who then set fire to the house. Williams is in jail.

CURTAINS HIS PRIVILEGES

Officials Decide Thaw Is Having Too Much Freedom.

Albany, N. Y., March 4.—The privileges which Harry K. Thaw has enjoyed at the Matteawan state hospital, will be restricted, if he is forced to stay there despite his latest effort to secure freedom, it having been agreed that the rules and regulations of the institution should be revised so that Thaw might be used the same as all other inmates.

Thaw now enjoys all the privileges of a patient of a private asylum.

DE LA BARRA DID BIG PUBLIC WORK

Was Thought Most Popular Man In Mexico.

ONCE AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

Man Who Got Big Recognition In Recent Revolt A Great Student of South American Governments—Mexico City A Scene of Ruin—Priests and Nuns Do Splendid Work.

Francisco Leon de la Barra, who was recently again placed at the head of Mexican affairs, is best known in this country as Mexican ambassador to the United States, a post he held from 1909 to 1911, being called home in March of the latter year to become minister of foreign affairs in President Diaz's cabinet.

Shortly afterward, following President Diaz's withdrawal, he became provisional president of Mexico. As ambassador at Washington he made many friends in this country. He was on intimate terms with President Taft and Secretary Knox and was in their confidence concerning the mobilization of United States troops on the Texas frontier.

He was born in 1863, received his education at the College of the City of Mexico and upon completing his studies there took up the law and was admitted to the bar. His specialty was international law, and his first important work after he entered the foreign affairs office was the negotiation of various treaties with foreign powers, notably one of commerce and navigation with Holland and one of extradition with Italy.

He was made a member of the Federal Congress in 1891 and remained there until 1896. As president of the international law committee of the Pan-American Congress, which met in Mexico City in 1901, he was the leading advocate of the measure for the compulsory adjustment of money claims.

He was Mexico's delegate to the Pan-American Congress in Rio de Janeiro in 1906 and to the peace conference at The Hague in 1907.

As envoy to all the republics on the Atlantic coast of South America he was said to have achieved a wonderful knowledge of Latin-American affairs. He represented his country in the Netherlands and in Belgium before being sent as ambassador to the United States.

Senor de la Barra was known in Washington for his pleasing manners and the fluency and correctness of his French and English.

Hundreds of Homeless.

There was no estimating the number of homeless people suddenly reduced to misery in Mexico City. After leaving their homes destroyed by cannon they had no places of refuge save the churches. The fathers of the church had opened the sanctuary to the distressed. By the time daylight came on the sixth day at least 10,000 people, mostly women and children, were sleeping or praying in them. The churches of San Jose de los Naturales, Santa Vera Cruz, San Francisco, La Concepcion, La Balvanera, Santa Caterina de Sena, Jesus Maria and many more were crowded with the miserable. It is estimated that 3,000 persons fell in the week of fighting. A big proportion were noncombatants.

The charity of the priests went part way toward alleviating suffering and hunger. The Catholic sisters nursed sick and injured women, while brothers of the orders and the priests provided coffee, beans and the ever necessary cigarettes.

Daylight exposed the dreadful ruin that had been wrought after five days of tremendous cannonading in the center of a city of 500,000 people. From the great national palace on the east to the legislative palace and the Colonia Roma (where the American embassy is located) on the west and from the Church of San Hipolito on the north to the Belem prison on the south a territory containing the most beautiful streets and the finest public and business buildings of the capital showed signs of wreckage, and in the Charles IV. square many houses have been dismantled or broken to pieces.

Streets Seem Tornado Swept.

A score of streets appear as if they had been swept by a tornado. Mounds of wreckage and debris in which lie the bodies of human beings and of horses offend the senses. Many of the streets are impassable. The incessant storm of lead and iron has wrecked the electric lighting. The telephone service is practically ruined.

There is no business whatever. The banks have been closed for days. The public markets are deserted. Even the general postoffice is shut, many of the employees having been drafted into the federal army. But the greatest menace of all is that of pestilence. Nothing whatever has been done by the troops of either side to protect the city from plague.

More than 1,000 American citizens were quartered at the American embassy or in private houses, many unfurnished, hired by Ambassador Wilson. The Americans have been active in caring for other foreign residents. In the sudden begira of late Wednesday evening, when all of the automobiles were hired.

THE MISSOURI.

Following is the first verse of Miller's splendid poem entitled "The Missouri:"

Where ranged the black maned woolly bulls
By millions, fat and unafraid;
Where gold, unclaimed in cradles,
Slept mid the grass roots, gorge and glade;
Where peaks companioned with the stars
And dropped the blue with shining white,
With massive silver beams and bars,
With copper bastions, height on height—
There wast thou born, O Lord of Strength!
O yellow lion, leap and length
Of arm from out an arctic chine
To far, fair Mexic seas are thine!

CHIROPRACTIC

KI-RO-PRAK-TIC

This Science has proven that, LIFE and HEALTH of man depend upon the transmission of life and health impulses, from the brain, by nerves which extend down within the spinal column and out to all parts of the body. And that these nerves may become pinched where they pass through the foramina, small holes, between the vertebrae. The vertebrae becoming subluxated, slightly misplaced, close the foramina more or less and pressing on the nerves hinder transmission of impulses from the brain to some part or parts of the body which become diseased as a result. The CHIROPRACTOR locates and adjusts these subluxated vertebrae and the nerves being no longer pinched. Innate Nature in the brain is enabled to send the necessary impulses to restore function and health and remove diseased conditions.

I do not treat Effects, or use Medicine, Surgery, Osteopathy, Massage, Magnetic Healing, Suggestive Therapeutics, Christian Science or any methods used by others except the Chiropractor who uses his hands only to locate and adjust subluxations.

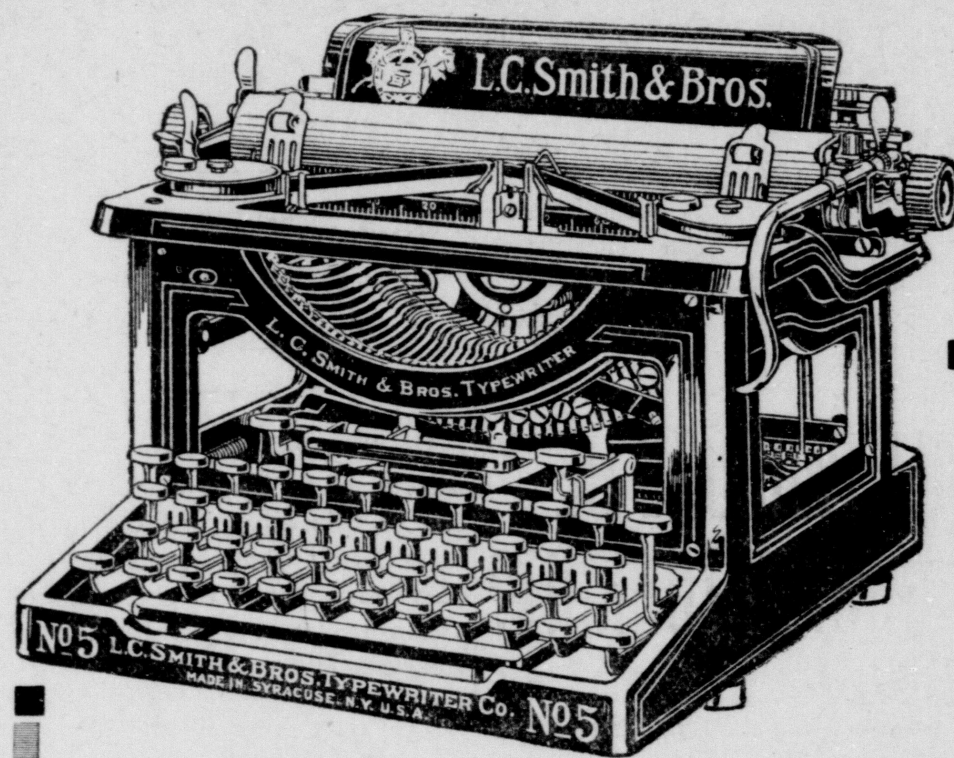

Most surgical cases yield to Chiropractic without use of knife, especially Appendicitis. Fevers usually yield in from one to thirty minutes. Investigate and learn the cause of your disease. It will cost you nothing for Spinal Analysis of your case.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Hood were at Indianapolis Tuesday.

Mrs. Addie Hiatt and sons, Wilbur and Fred, and daughter Ruth, of Fountain City, are guests of Rev. J. Edgar Williams and family.

Rev. J. Edgar Williams attended legislature at Indianapolis Monday.

Miss Gertrude Addison was here over Sunday.

Miss Mary Earnest was in Rushville Monday.

Pearl Kizer of Indianapolis was here Monday.

Glenwood.

The church services were not very well attended on Sunday, because of the inclement weather. It don't take very severe weather to prevent some from attending church services.

A. P. Reynolds and daughter Vera were shopping in Indianapolis one day last week.

Dr. Joseph Walther has purchased a lot of Erskine Daily and will have a new residence erected immediately. He is compelled to give up the house where he lives to Mrs. Anna Kirkpatrick can move into.

Several attended the Kirkpatrick divorce case at Rushville last week. Perry Meek is pushing the remodeling of his house.

Carl DeHaven of Connersville, called at the Nichols home one day last week. Mr. DeHaven is on the lookout for horses.

Mr. Wilson's sale did not reach the amount that it would if the day had been fine, although they had a tent.

It is rumored that a dealer in southern hogs cleared a nice neat sum of money.

Mr. Daily has returned from Kentucky where he spent some three or four weeks sight seeing.

The series of meetings at the United Presbyterian church have closed.

Probably there will be a show to follow the series of meetings.

The local basket ball quintet failed to play Saturday night because of a death in one of the families of one of the players.

Wm. Baker relishes milking a Jersey cow on Sabbath morning. He gets most of the milk by way of absorption. He says the cow can kick like a mule when necessary and also when unnecessary.

It seems like all the old people are passing to the great beyond.

James Miller, who died recently, was a highly respected citizen of our community. He was of course inactive for quite a while back, but before he was incapacitated he was very industrious, honest and upright citizen.

Mrs. Pearl Link visited in Spice-land over Sunday. Mrs. Link's mother Mrs. Mary Doughty and sister Miss Nelle, were visiting a brother, Emmett Doughty, who has been living there for several years.

LAISO FOR ENGLISH POLICE.

Authorities of Hull to Send Twenty Men to New Mexico.

The police authorities of Hull, England, are seriously considering sending men to the western part of America to take lessons in the cow country in the use of the lariat. A cow puncher has recently been in Hull giving exhibitions, and the police have been so much impressed that they have decided that it will be a good thing to have a number of their men trained to use the lasso, which, it is believed, will prove of value in saving drowning persons, stopping runaway horses, catching thieves and pickpockets and saving life at fires.

Twenty men have been selected from the Hull constabulary to go to America. It is expected to have them there in time for the spring roundup on Bar Seven ranch, at Albuquerque, New Mexico. The experiment is being watched with much interest by the London police, who are considering adopting it for the regulation of motor traffic if it proves successful at Hull.

FAMILY MOVES INTO SEWER.

Evicted From Home, Man Takes Brood to Strange Abode.

Paul Hatin, his wife, sister and five little children were evicted from their home for nonpayment of rent, and early that day they moved their belongings into one of the main sewers in the heart of Paris.

City workmen had left the traps open while away at breakfast and Hatin with ropes lowered a bed, bedding, cook stove and other household belongings into the sewer.

When the workmen returned they found Mme. Hatin preparing breakfast in the sewer. They would not allow the family to camp there, but the workmen bought milk for the little Hatins and gave Hatin money enough to allow him to get a room. Hatin said he had tried in vain to obtain aid from the authorities and was at his wits' end when he espied the open sewer.

Credit Where Credit's Due.

Praise of William Howard Taft, the outgoing president, who today gave over the reins of the government to Woodrow Wilson, in the columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer, an opposition newspaper, is, of course worthy.

The Enquirer sees fit to pay tribute to the achievements of the man who steps down, the man who was, during the last campaign, the subject of as much railery and unjust criticism as was possibly as any other man who ever held that high executive office.

"His qualities as he grew to manhood," says the Enquirer, "were solid rather than brilliant, but they were combined in his make-up with a disposition so kindly and genial, and with an integrity so unassailable, that he was early selected to fill positions of trust and responsibility."

The Enquirer reviews his successful career in the public's service on the bench, as governor-general of the Philippines, as a member of Roosevelt's cabinet, and then adds: "Called home to enter Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet, he became one of its most popular and efficient members, and was elected his chief's successor by a great popular majority."

"It is too early," continues the Enquirer, "to make a critical estimate of his administration. That it has achieved great things cannot be disputed, and had it not been harassed and what it has accomplished obscured by the smoke of internal party dissensions, it would be generally conceded to have originated and put into effect more useful and really progressive measures than any other single Administration up to now. History will so record, and it is safe to anticipate as its verdict that Mr. Taft has been, while one of the unluckiest in the time and circumstances of his tenure, one of the best, most high-minded and successful of our long line of presidents."

Of course, during the last campaign, the Enquirer would never have admitted that there was anything of good in the "diabolical" Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, but listen now to what the Enquirer has to say:

"The Payne-Aldrich tariff, in spite of all attacks on it, secured an average reduction of 8 per cent. created a Tariff Board and a Court of Customs Appeals, laid a corporation tax, gave the Philippines fair treatment and changed a deficit to a surplus. It came at an unfortunate psychological moment, when insurgency was in the air, and had Mr. Taft vetoed it there would have been a majority instead of a minority of his party against him. Whatever may be thought of the reciprocity treaty, and it was probably a political mistake at the time, it was a great achievement to get it through the Senate, as was the negotiation or arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France.

"The Sherman law has been enforced impartially and effectively, and for the first time offending officials have been given jail sentences. A Bureau of Mines was established, the procedure in Courts simplified and expedited, the Panama Canal pushed to completion, Mexico and the Central American States and Cuba handled with great tact and forbearance, and at the same time with firmness. New and valuable treaties have been negotiated, postal banks and a parcel post established, the Civil Service greatly improved and extended, and a sound conservation policy suggested and as far as possible put into operation."

"Further, Mr. Taft has waged effective war on white slavery, has improved the administrative methods of the Government, has suggested and urged cheap loans for farmers, has advocated the adoption of a rational system for river and harbor expenditures, has created a commission to investigate the issue of stocks and bonds, and frauds at custom houses and by use of the mails have been enormously decreased. His vetoes of ill-considered, hasty tariff legislation and of the immigration bill showed high courage, and his judicial appointments have been of the first order. It has been said of Mr. Taft that because he has advocated measures without reference to their political effect or to his own personal fortunes he is not a good politician. History will set it down to his credit. Take it altogether, it is a remarkable record of unselfish, conscientious, laborious services and of statesman-like, constructive achievement."

ASSESSORS ARE ON THE JOB NOW

Acting on Strict Instructions Regarding Their Duty as Included In State Board Letter.

GOVERNMENT BONDS AS CASH

All Classes of Personal Property Taken at Three-Fourths of Cash Value.

The township assessors are now diligently engaged in assessing property and they have ninety days to complete the task. They began work yesterday, after a meeting here Saturday with the county assessor, John F. Moses, who instructed them as to how to proceed and read a letter from the state board of tax commissioners.

The instructions say that it was recently decided that where government bonds had been loaned to banks by firms or individuals, wherein the bank issues to the depositor or lender of such bonds, a receipt, agreeing to return on demand, or at a certain time, government bonds of equal amount of value, the bank agreeing to pay for the use of such bonds, of certain agreed rate of interest, say 1½ per cent, besides the interest such bonds draw regularly, the receipts for the bonds are equal to certificates of deposit and are taxable. The board held that the bonds in reality become the property of the bank and part of its assets, the former owner holding simply a certificate as any other depositor.

Another rule which will be followed this year pertains to the method of assessing all classes of personal property. The state board has ordered that property shall be assessed at full cash or market value and then one-fourth of the amount be deducted. This places all property upon a seventy-five per cent. basis of taxation.

Heretofore different classes of property have been assessed upon a specified scale, and the assessors could use their own judgment in placing the value upon the particular article before them. County Assessor Moses said that the new rule would make little difference here as personal property had been assessed upon the seventy-five per cent. basis for several years. The board decided to adopt this plan of assessing personal property in order to approach an equalization of the present assessment of real estate.

In order to get the property in all counties assessed upon the seventy-five per cent. basis the state board has sent out the following stinging notices to the assessors:

"If personal property of all kinds in your county, including banks and other corporations is not assessed as above indicated, this board will feel it is positively necessary this year to raise all the personal property of your county to make equal to the counties that have followed the above rule."

JACKSON'S BILL BECOMES A LAW

nor, was the T aylor bill permitting cities and towns owning municipal plants to turn over balances, accruing from the operation of such plants, to the general funds of such cities at the end of the year.

The bill provides that the treasurer of the city or town shall keep a separate account of each of the revenues, accruing from the operation of the public utilities and "any surplus remaining in such fund or funds at the close of any year and not needed for the payment of employees, general running expenses, improvements, repairs to any such works, or debt, may be appropriated by the common council or the board of trustees of any such city or town for the general funds of any such city or town; provided, however, that no transfer of such funds shall be made so long as a bonded debt against said works remains in whole or part."

The law applies here in Rushville, since conditions referred to in the measure exist here.

The governor has signed the bill by Representative Fleming, providing penalties for any one who maliciously or mischievously poisons or kills or injures with a deadly weapon, horses, mules, goats, sheep or hogs. The penalty provided is a fine in any sum not exceeding $500, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail, not exceeding one year; or imprisonment in the state prison for a period of from one to eight years. The provision permitting imprisonment in the state prison is a new one, the remainder of the bill being a re-enactment of the act of 1905. The bill carries no emergency clause.

The McCabe bill authorizing township trustees and school trustees of incorporated towns to continue high schools for a longer time than the term of the elementary schools has been approved. It contains an emergency clause, and therefore is now in effect. In the event the school authorities deem it unwise or inexpedient to continue the term of the elementary schools for the period required for a commissioned or certified high school they are authorized to continue a non-commissioned, commissioned or certified high school for a term not to exceed that required for the commissioned high school.

Another step in the trading stamp controversy, which has become one of the most spirited of the legislative session, was taken yesterday when the House advanced the Gelts bill from the Senate to third reading by adopting the minority report favoring passage of the bill without amendments. Without a dissenting vote the minority report was substituted for the majority, but lack of opposition apparently was due to the fact that leaders in the fight against the bill misunderstood the question before the House.

Representative Weisman, chairman of the committee on judiciary, led the fight for amendments to the bill to permit merchants to give cash to the amount of two-thirds of the cash value required to be printed on trading stamps and to permit them to refuse to cash trading stamps in less amounts than $2.00.

Representative Thornton made a spirited speech against amendment of the bill, declaring that the owner of a $300,000 hotel in Louisville boasts today that that hotel was built by the people of New Albany and Jeffersonville, this man having conducted a trading stamp concern in southern Indiana. Mr. Thornton described the trading stamp as a parasite upon the Indiana mercantile business.

SUES C. H. & D. FOR $12,000 DAMAGE

Railroad Commission Files Action

Because of Failure to Install Block Signal System.

ROAD VIOLATES AN ORDER

Unlawfully and Wrongfully Since January First, It is Charged.

Suit to recover $12,000 from the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad Company because of its failure to install an automatic block signal system on its tracks between Glenwood, Ind., and the Ohio state line was brought yesterday in the Marion county circuit court by the railroad commission of Indiana.

It is charged that since January 1, 1913, the company has unlawfully and wrongfully operated its trains between the named points in violation of the law. The company was to have installed such system by January 1, it is alleged, and no extension of time from that date has been granted the company by the commission.

The law stipulating that railroad companies shall install block signal systems provides that if a railroad company fails to comply with the law a penalty of $1,000 a week shall be forfeited by the company for the time the company operates its trains in violation of the law.

The C. H. & D. wreck in Irvington.

November 13, 1912, which cost sixteen lives, occurred on the track between Glenwood and Indianapolis. The indictments against the officials of the road, returned by the Marion county grand jury, were based on the theory that the company had failed to comply with the law providing for the installation of block signals on that part of the road where the wreck occurred.

It later developed that the railroad commission had approved the manual block system in use on that part of the road until January 1, 1913. Frank E. Gavin, who brought the suit for the commission, said the matter of recovering a penalty for that part of the road between Indianapolis and Glenwood would not be taken up at this time.

FOUND IN ROAD, FROZEN

Mrs. Calista Modlin of Dunreith is in Serious Condition.

Mrs. Calista Modlin, age 70 years, was found unconscious on the National Pike Sunday, by Alva McFarlan. The aged woman was almost frozen to death when found. Physicians were called and an examination showed that she was perhaps suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. There is no means of knowing how long she had laid out in the intensely cold weather, as she lives alone. Her face and hands on Monday showed that the flesh was at least badly frost bitten, if indeed not frozen. She is in no condition to talk of her experience. Frank Modlin, her son, was called from Spiceland. She is resting fairly well today.

TWO WILLS ARE FILED FOR PROBATE

Henry Rees Leaves His Estate to Three Children, According to Codicil Attached.

TERM OF MILLER INSTRUMENT

The wills of Henry Rees, who died at his home east of Fairview Sunday, and James Miller, of the Glenwood community, who died last week, have been admitted for probate in the Fayette circuit court. The Connersville News says the will of Mr. Rees was written down in 1894, and provided that, at the testator's death, his whole estate should go to his wife. At her death divers provisions were to become effective. Mrs. Rees passed away three years ago, thus making that feature of the will inoperative.

A codicil attached to the main instrument, under date of September 9, 1910, makes clear the desire of Mr. Rees. It is that all his estate, real and personal, is to be divided equally among his three children, George Rees, John Rees and Mrs. Gillespie. Joseph Wiles is made executor.

The other will is that of James Miller. It gives the whole estate to Isabelle G. Miller, a daughter, under the stipulation that she shall give $500 each to Roy and Walter Shannon, grandsons, when they come of age; and that she shall give to another daughter, Mary Little, $2,000. It case of Miss Miller's predecease the whole estate was willed to the grandsons and the other daughter. William Miller, an adopted son, is made executor of the instrument.

TIME FOR SCHOOLS TO CLOSE IS NEAR

County Board of Education Fixes Dates and Names Time of Semi-Final Examinations.

SOME WILL CLOSE THIS MONTH

At the regular monthly meeting of county board of education in the county superintendent's office yesterday, dates for the semi-final examinations were fixed and dates for the commencements in the township schools were discussed, but were not fixed definitely. The trustee have the privilege of naming the day for the latter events, but they always consult one another so as to avoid conflicts.

It was decided that practically some of the township schools would close the last week of this month. There are several instances where this rule will not be obeyed: where there is more than a seven-months school year and where there has been some delay due to infectious diseases and other causes.

All pupils who fail in one or two studies in the semi-final eight year examinations will be given another chance in the May examinations. The Washington examination March 15; Glenwood in Union, May 17; and the following on April 19: Ripley, Gings in Union, Posey, Walker, Orange, Anderson and Noble. The other dates have not been set.

BENEFIT SHOW.

Dr. C. H. Gilbert's class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school will give a benefit show at the Palace theater Wednesday night. The proceeds will be used for charity purposes.

WEATHER.

Snow in north and rain south portion this afternoon. Cloudy and colder tonight. Wednesday fair. Colder south portion.

POSEY PROPERTY.

Frank Wilson has purchased the old Posey property in Main street, the consideration being $6,200. Ab Denning purchased the Posey farm of 200 acres and R. L. Innis bought the Ab Denning place just north of the Posey farm at $150 an acre.

SPREADERS

The Great Western Manure Spreader, one of the best made. We keep you in repairs for one year. Will A. Jones has used one for 6 years and bought only 3 links in that time. It is the best made of any of them. If you need one you can buy one at about cost, on time or for cash.

I have a one-horse power Grinder not sold. No better made. The price is right and the Grinder is one of the best.

grimly. "Well, then, I've tried my best to bribe your people, and I've got little out of it. I've tried the foreman, the night watchman, and everybody else. I've had a dozen of your workmen slugged for scabbing, and four or five of them shot, one or two at least, for a good, permanent funeral. And I paid the funeral expenses! You didn't know that? Well, that's the truth of it!"

"Well, what do you know about that?" gasped Standley, aghast.

"I know a good deal about my Christian friend," said the slender man relentlessly. "I can tell you what you already know, that your motors are dismantled to-day. I can tell you also that there's a very good chance that the secret we've been after is in the hands of one man, and he's holding it up for some reason best known to himself. We've got nothing on him! I can also tell you that if he won't give up—though why he won't I can't imagine—it's possible we can work out a receiver of our own elsewhere, without him."

"Well, what does he want?" This from the old man.

"That's the everlasting mystery and puzzle of it. He doesn't want anything, so far as I can learn. There's some factor in him that I can't get my hands on, try the best that I can. Not that I don't expect to break you wide open eventually, my friends."

"Now why do you want to do that?" asked the older financier. "Why not join in with us and break the bone-head?"

"Fine! But how can we do that? He's sitting pretty tight. The man's played in fine luck. I admit I rather admire him."

"Bah, that's the way with all the new ones; they all play in luck for a time. Each Napoleon has his boom, but after a time boom values shrink—they always do. This chap'll find his level when we get ready to tell him."

"For instance?"

"Well, for instance, then! He's sitting there with a small margin of control in the International. That gave him his start, and he's wise enough to hang on to that. But it didn't give him his money—he's only made dividend money out of that; and who cares for dividend money? He doesn't own control in the Guatemala Oil Company, does he? He's made a lot out of Arizona and Utah coppers, but he doesn't own control in a single company there, does he? He's in with the L. P., but he borrowed to get in. He's made a big killing in Rubber, but he doesn't own any Rubber control of his own, does he? Now, you follow him

Keeps Your Stove "Always Ready for Company"

A bright, clean, glossy stove is the joy and pride of every housekeeper. But it is hard to keep a stove nice and shiny—unless Black Silk Stove Polish is used.

Here is the reason: Black Silk Stove Polish sticks right to the iron. It doesn't rub off or dust off. Its shine lasts four times longer than the shine of any other polish. You only need to polish once a week, as often, yet your stove will be cleaner, brighter and better looking than it has been since you first bought it. Use on your parlor stove, kitchen stove or gas stove. Get a can from your hardware or stove dealer. If you do not find it better than any other stove polish you have ever used before, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. But we feel sure you will agree with the thousands of other up-to-date women who are now using Black Silk Stove Polish and who say it is the "best stove polish ever made."

BLACK SILK STOVE POLISH

LIQUID OR PASTE ONE QUALITY

Be sure to get the genuine. Black Silk Stove Polish costs you no more than the ordinary kind. Keep your grates, registers, fenders and stove pipes bright and free from rusting by using BLACK SILK AIR-DRYING ENAMEL. Brush free with each can of enamel only.

Use BLACK SILK METAL POLISH for silverware, nickel, tinware or brass. It works quickly, easily, and leaves a brilliant surface. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

out in every deal he's made—iron, copper, steel, oil, rails, timber, irrigation, utilities, industrials—and you'll find he's simply banking on his inside information and on his outside credit. Who gave him both of those things?—Why, we did, didn't we? All right! Suppose we withdraw our credit. What happens?"

They went silent now, and grouped a little closer about the tabouret which stood between them. The old man's voice went on evenly, with no excitement. Their conversation attracted the attention of none in the wide lounge room, where large affairs more than once had been discussed—even the making of Senators to order.

"I'll tell you what happens," the old man resumed. "He quits using us for a stalking horse, and he comes down to his own system. He's spread out. Banks are all polite, but—well, he has to put up collateral; and then some more. If he doesn't want to put up International, he's apt to find that a bunch of automobiles is poor property when sold at twenty per cent. their cost. He turns off two or three butlers, but still that doesn't serve for margins. The market doesn't suit his book any more."

"He's discovering now the truth of something my old friend Emory Storrs used to say—Emory always was in debt, or wanted to be, and says he: 'There's no trouble about prosperity in this country; there's plenty of money—the only trouble is in the confounded scarcity in collateral.' Well, he goes over to this young man, who is standing out for some reason best known to himself, and he tries to get him to come through, and he doesn't come through. What's left? Why, the diamond lightnings of the Lady of the Lightning—and his International Power stock."

"Meantime, all this thing can't be kept entirely secret; that is to say, the market part of it can't be. But we sit tight, all of us. We hold our regular directors' meetings of the International board, and we smile, and look pleasant. We don't know a thing about his hot water experiences in the open market. He explains to us why this and that happens, or doesn't happen, in International; and we smile and look pleasant, and we don't know a thing. After a time it's up to him and the Lady of the Lightnings. Something pops! He's up against it, all except his International Power. Then Van, and you, Standley, and you, Ack, and you, and you and I, and all of us—why we're still pleasant as pie to him and we say, 'Well, Mr. John Rawn, if you'd only sell us two or three shares of International, we'd pay you twenty times what it's worth—but it's very much cheaper now—by reason of Van's competing company!'"

"That's about all, I think!"

The others nodded silently. The game was not new to them, and even in its most complicated features might have been called simple, with resources such as theirs. If these resources had made Rawn, they could unmake him. It was all in the day's work for them.

"So I'll tell you what we'll do," concluded the old financier after a time. "We'll just let you and Van look around here a little bit and see what more you can learn. You're one of the real directors of International Power to-day, Van. Mr. Rawn is on the minority and the toboggan list, or is going to be there. We'll take the first steps when we see the boys down East. The country's getting right now for a little speculation—things have been dead long enough. There'll be a market. When the market starts, I think you know which way it will go for a certain person I needn't name."

They rose, stood about loungingly for a time, and at length slowly separated, the older man and the ex-director with the pointed beard falling back of the others for just an instant.

"What's the truth about the row, Van?" demanded the old man, laying a large, pudgy hand on the other's shoulder.

"I don't know, honestly, what it is. I can tell you this much—your factory is closed. Your superintendent, Halsey, has quit his work and left his old residence. Didn't Rawn tell you that?"

"No! What's up now—some trouble with a woman? Wasn't he married to Rawn's daughter?"

"Yes, and she went to live with Papa. Papa had the coin."

"And the superintendent is going the chorus girl route here or in New York?"

"No, sir, not in the least—nothing of the sort. You can't guess where he's gone."

The other shook his head.

"Well, I'll tell you then, since you are one of the directors of the International and I'm not! He's gone and taken his other pair of pants and his celluloid collar, and moved over to the North Shore! He's living in the same house with Papa J. Rawn right now—that is to say, he has been for two or three weeks."

"Well, what do you know about that, too?" commented his friend.

"I don't know much about it. As I told you, there's something in here I don't understand. I can't for the life of me figure out that chap Halsey's motives or his moves. But I don't care about him. It's Rawn I'm after—and I'm going to get him!"

MADERO'S FAILURE DUE TO NEPOTISM

He Put 150 Members of His Family In Power.

IS TOOL OF UNSCRUPULOUS

Nation Exploited to Verge of Bankruptcy by the Avaricious Officials. President Ruthlessly Broke His Promises of Relief to Down-trodden Peons—Pledged to Divide Lands.

A man of the highest patriotism and loftiest ideals, both before and during the revolution which he led against Porfirio Diaz in 1910, Francisco I. Madero rapidly developed tyrannical methods with his accession to the presidency of Mexico in the autumn of 1911.

Not alone has Madero failed, it is charged, to keep the pledges he made to the people when he called for their support on the platform of San Luis Potosi, but his administration has been marked by ruthless extravagance, bad politics and nepotism. For the latter the ambition of the members of his family, notably his brother and minister of finance, Gustavo Madero, has been held largely responsible.

Madero Family Seize Offices.

The Maderos as a family opposed the uprising against Diaz, holding that the latter was too strong ever to be overthrown. With Francisco Madero's success, for which the United States was largely responsible, the entire Madero family—and there are more than 150 of them—moved on to Mexico City and appropriated everything in the way of desirable and lucrative offices. The president has been absolutely dominated by his brother Gustavo.

The latter is the direct antithesis of the executive. He is a strong, forceful personality, a man of courage, initiative, cunning and unusual ability. Under his financial management the country in a little more than a year has been brought to the very brink of bankruptcy. It has been charged that the Madero family has become impoverished, although his worst enemy has never charged the president himself with being money dishonest.

It is doubtful, however, if any man who ever ruled south of the Rio Grande has been an easier tool in the hands of unscrupulous officials.

Men familiar with the real situation in Mexico predict a long period of disorder before the country settles down again.

Decline of Madero Regime.

The Madero regime has been tottering to its fall for six months. When Senor Calero, late minister to Washington, stated in the Mexican congress recently that he had been lying to the United States government for ten months in telling it that Madero had the malcontents throughout the republic under control he stated what everybody in the City of Mexico and many persons in Washington knew perfectly well.

That Madero was not forced from his place months ago was due to the belief throughout Mexico that the United States was supporting his administration. Much as Mexicans, as a rule, hate Americans, they have a wholesome respect for the United States government.

From the first Madero was an easy target for his enemies. His failure to fulfill the chief pledge contained in the program of San Luis Potosi made him vulnerable. This was the pledge to divide the land among the people when he had conquered Diaz—in other words, to break up the great estates so that the poor man could buy a small plot of land and actually own it.

This was the platform on which Madero went to war and on which he fought his way to victory. From the first he was bitterly opposed by the Cientifico group. The Cientificos are not a party. The word is one applied largely in derision to the great landed proprietors who ruled Mexico with an iron hand in the Diaz regime.

During his time in the presidency Madero has never made a move to break up the great estates. Rebuked for this at different times, his reply has been that he could not do everything at once and that he must have time. The division of the land, however, was something the people had fought for, and they were not patient. Within six months the country was ripe for a revolution against Madero, and the agitators were not slow to take advantage of the situation.

Nation's Financial Woes.

Madero has had a stormy time as president of the republic. When he was elected there was approximately $40,000,000 in the treasury. This fund was exhausted; also a loan of $20,000,000 which Gustavo Madero negotiated abroad. Another loan was being arranged when the present uprising occurred. So to the charge of betraying the masses by failing to put through the land laws was added the charge of extravagance. It is said that more than 100 of Madero's relatives have been holding office under his administration.

Many petty tyrannies have been charged against Madero the last year. He has been accused of trying to arrange the personnel of the legislative bodies to suit himself instead of leaving it to the voters. Methods of this sort smacked too much of the Diaz regime to satisfy the masses.

BOSS OF THE AUTO SHOW

JOHN ORMAN.

Again John Orman is the boss of the Indianapolis Automobile Show to be held at State Fair grounds in the Coliseum buildings and the Annex March 24-29. Orman has always bossed the Indianapolis automobile shows and insists that this year's show will be the biggest and the best.

INDIANA AUTO SHOW

EXHIBIT WILL BE STAGED AT FAIR GROUNDS COLISEUM.

Success of Fall Shows Lead Managers to Pick State Buildings for 1913 Show.

The State of Indiana is interested in the automobile show to be staged by the Indianapolis Automobile Trade Association March 24-29 in the Coliseum and Coliseum Annex at the State Fair grounds.

The automobile shows held during State Fair last year were so successful that certain members of the I. A. T. A. board of directors decided that the fair grounds would be the ideal place for the show.

The directors have been studying the shows at New York and Chicago and they announce that the Indianapolis show, though the last in the national circuit of shows, will be as good as the big ones.

John Orman, show manager in the past, has been put in charge and Joe Kelly, well known Indianapolis newspaperman and automobile publicity and advertising man, has been placed in charge of the show publicity.

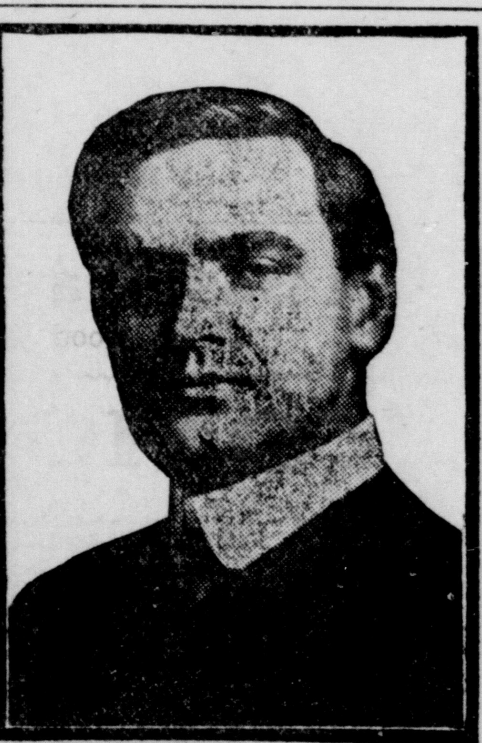

The fair grounds site should be ideal, for it will comfortably house all the spectators, all the cars and the trucks. The main show will be held in the coliseum building, which has a floor space available for show purposes of 39,000 square feet. The coliseum will house the automobiles, motorcycles and accessories.

In the annex, directly east of the coliseum, there is additional floor space of 22,000 square feet. This annex will accommodate all the commercial cars. To make the show a unit, the annex will be connected with the Coliseum with an awning sixty feet long.

"The show of last year was a record-breaking one in success and in business done," said Secretary Hunter, "but there is no reason why this show should not be better and bigger. Indianapolis ought to have one of the best shows in the national circuits."

HEAD OF PRESS BUREAU

JOE KELLY.

So far as press matter is concerned, Joe Kelly, head of the press bureau of the Indianapolis Auto Trade Association, is boosting the automobile show by seeing that papers in the State have all the reading matter they can use pertaining to the auto show to be held at the State Fair grounds, March 24-29. Papers outside of Indiana, from San Francisco to Boston, want to hear what the Indianapolis show crowd is doing. The show will be held in the Coliseum and Coliseum Annex buildings.

WHAT INTERVENTION MEANS

Five years of guerilla warfare extending into the mountain fastnesses of Mexico with an American army of upward of 250,000 necessary is what intervention in Mexico means to the United States, according to the statement of Frederick L. Huidekoper, the military expert.

"The hatred of the Latins for the Anglo-Saxon is intense in Mexico," he said, "and intervention in any form by this country means the welding of all antagonistic forces against one common enemy. The United States takes on her shoulders an enormous task, that of subduing a country where the lines of communication exist only in the settled parts. Three distinct campaigns would have to be waged in north, south and central Mexico to conquer the land. Central Mexico would be the only part of the country in which decisive campaigns could be fought. The others would be a series of long drawn out skirmishes—guerilla warfare in its worst phase.

"The lines of communication are all remote," he said, "and when one point is conquered it will be necessary to maintain a defensive force. This would require an enormous number of men. In order to obtain such an army the militia of course would have to be drafted into service."

WILSON'S VIEWS GIVEN TO NATION

Inaugural Address of the New President.

DEFINES PEOPLE'S DUTY.

First Obligation of Law Is to Keep Society Sound by Sanitary and Pure Food Statutes and Measures Determining Conditions of Labor—Task Not Merely One of Politics.

Washington, March 4.—The inaugural address of President Woodrow Wilson is as follows:

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became Democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The senate about to assemble will also be Democratic. The offices of president and vice president have been put into the hands of Democrats. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the Democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things with which we had grown familiar and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things as we look frankly upon them, willing to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

Our Model Government.

We see that in many things life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in the diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men and the limitless enterprise of groups of men. It is great also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking forms the beauty and the energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing and contains it in rich abundance.

But the evil has come with the good and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come inexcusable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and impotent, scorning to be careful, shamefully prodigal as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn moving under tone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

Duty of Americans Outlined.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to reconsider, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been, "Let every man look out for himself; let every generation look out for itself," while we reared giant machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves. We had not forgotten our morals. We remembered well enough that we had set up a policy which was meant to serve the humblest as well as the most powerful, with an eye single to the standards of justice and fair play, and remembered it with pride.

But we were very heedless and in a hurry to be great.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

Things to Be Accomplished.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered, and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all its sides, financial as well as administrative, holds capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentality of science taken directly to the farm or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; water-courses undeveloped, waste places unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mine. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy as we should either as organizers of industry, as statesmen or as individuals.

Society's Duty to Itself.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government may be put at the service of humanity in safeguarding the health of the nation, the health of its men and its women and its children, as well as their rights in the struggle for existence. This is no sentimental duty. The firm basis of government is justice, not pity. These are matters of justice. There can be no equality or opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not itself crush or weaken or damage its own constituent parts. The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves. Sanitary laws, pure food laws and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency.

These are some of the things we ought to do and not leave the others undone, the old fashioned, never to be neglected, fundamental safeguarding of property and of individual right. This is the high enterprise of the new day: To lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearth fire of every man's conscience and vision of the right. It is inconceivable we should do this as partisans; it is inconceivable we should do it in ignorance of the facts as they are or in blind haste. We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon, and step by step we shall make it what it should be, in the spirit of those who question their own wisdom and seek counsel and knowledge, not shallow self satisfaction or the excitement of excursions whither they cannot tell. Justice, and only justice, shall always be our motto.

Task Not Merely One of Politics.

And yet it will be no cool process of mere science. The nation has been deeply stirred—stirred by a solemn passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil. The feelings with which we face this new age of right and opportunity sweep across our heartstrings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. We know our task to be no mere task of politics, but a task which shall search us through and through, whether we be able to understand our time and the need of our people, whether we be indeed their spokesmen and interpreters, whether we have the pure heart to comprehend and the rectified will to choose our high course of action.

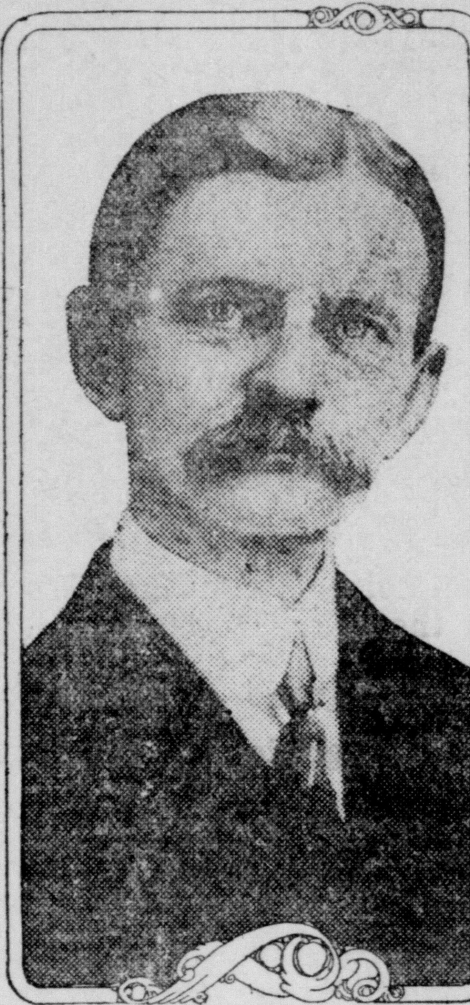

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here must not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them if they will but counsel and sustain me.

The Drama of London's Fog.

There is a whole world of drama bound up in the chronicles of London's fog. This misty and mysterious visitant, far older than Gog or Magog, which used to visit the watches of the night when the metropolis barely lifted itself out of the surrounding marshes, has a fund of comedy as well as tragedy. Countless murders have been committed under its sheltering cloak, men and women have been waylaid, children have been torn from their mothers and wives from their husbands.—London Strand.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL

Newly Installed Vice President of the United States.

MR. TAFT GOES OUT WITHOUT A REGRET

No Note of Bitterness in His Farewell.

Washington, March 4.—For the first time for twenty-eight years William H. Taft will be a private citizen, when he leaves late today for Augusta. For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Taft has been continuously in the service of the public, and curiously enough the thing he is wondering about most on his departure from the White House is just how it is going to feel to be plain Mr. Taft again after so many years of "Mr. Solicitor General," "Judge," "Governor," "Mr. Secretary," and finally "Mr. President."

"I am not worrying about going out of the presidency," said the president, "but what I am asking myself is how I shall really feel when I retire from office after all these years of service. It is not the prospect of going out, but the morning after I am thinking about most."

There is not a note of bitterness in the Taft farewell. The president has been big enough and generous enough to smother any expression of resentment, even as against Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. The philosophy of life has taught him that harboring of resentment is not worth while.

Mr. Taft still looks back to the Roosevelt he knew four or more years ago with sentiments of personal gratitude and with admiration for his qualities as a leader. To the end the photograph of Colonel Roosevelt remained hanging on the wall of the president's private office, the only picture in the room besides that of the president's own father.

THE PRESIDENT'S CABINET

New Executive Has Sent Names of Advisers to Senate.

Washington, March 4.—President Wilson this afternoon will send to the senate the names of his cabinet. From an authoritative source it was learned that the following is the slate:

Secretary of State, William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

Secretary of the Treasury, William G. McAdoo of New York.

Attorney General, James C. McReynolds of Tennessee.

Secretary of War, Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey.

Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Postmaster General, Albert S. Burleson of Texas.

Secretary of Commerce, William C. Redfield of New York.

Secretary of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane of California.

Secretary of Agriculture, David F. Houston of Missouri.

Secretary of Labor, William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania.

Thomas Ewing Steele, who returned from Canada to Columbus, O., after being ten years a fugitive from the law, to receive sentence for blackmail, has been granted a full pardon by President Taft. Steele has made a fortune in Canada in the newspaper business.

SENTENCE WAS LIGHTENED

Gerbracht Will Have to Serve Only Thirty Days.

New York, March 4.—Ernest W. Gerbracht, former president of the Williamsburg Sugar Refinery, has been taken to jail at Mineola, L. J., where he will serve thirty days confinement.

Gerbracht, who was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government out of sugar duties, was originally sentenced to serve two years and pay a fine of $5,000. President Taft, however, commuted the sentence to thirty days and remitted the fine.

SIX TRUSTEES FILE REPORTS

They All Have Receipts Enough to Pay Auditor Sum and Keep One Hundred Dollars

DOG FUND MONEY ROTATES

Six of the twelve township trustees filed their annual report of the township dog fund, as required by law, in the county auditor's office yesterday. While only half of the reports have been filed, it is apparent that the raids of dogs on sheep during the last year were very costly.

The law requires that each trustee deposit the first Monday in March all money in the dog fund except $100. In case the receipts are not sufficient to pay the damages in one township, then this money is taken from another township where the loss was not so great. If after all the costs have been paid, and there is anything left, it goes into the tuition fund and is prorated out again to the different townships.

The reports show the following:

	Receipts	Expenses
Washington	$273	$190
Orange	292	192
Walker	248.50	241
Noble	217	117
Ripley	301	201
Anderson	262	162

STORE FILLED WITH SMOKE

Stove Checked and Fire Department Was Called.

The fire department was called to the Boxley piano store in West Second street this morning only to find the place filled with coal smoke. The stove had been filled with coal and the dampers closed. No one was in the place at the time and the front door was locked. From the amount of smoke in the place it was first thought that it was on fire and the firemen were compelled to break in at the rear door.

VIEWS WATSON WITHOUT BIAS

Everett H. Thompson of Richmond Pay Tribute to Former Congressman in Newspaper

IS HARD MAN TO KEEP DOWN
Unjustly Criticized, But it is True of Most Men Who Forge Way to Front.

There is one man in Richmond who sees James E. Watson with unbiased eyes. Everett H. Thompson contributes an article to the Indianapolis Star in which he pays tribute to the former congressman's excellent traits and expresses the opinion that he is by no means a "dead one" in the political world. Mr. Thompson says:

I read recently that a boom had been started out in Kansas and some other sections of the country for James E. Watson of Indiana for President in 1916. Such a boom is laughed at by Watson's political enemies and viewed as a joke, but, however we may disagree with Watson politically, we must admit that he is a man of great ability, thoroughly acquainted with all phases of legislation, a brilliant orator and a man of wonderful personality and influence. Mr. Watson makes a wonderful impression in any section of the country he is called. Once while I was at St. Joseph, Mo., a group of men were at the depot to meet Governor Hadley, who at that time was Governor of Missouri. In a conversation there I asked if they ever heard of "Jim" Watson out there? One of the fellows spoke up and said, "Jim Watson! I think he is one of the greatest men in the country today." He is termed a "political rascal" by many Hoosiers, especially from Wayne County and the Sixth Congressional District, but let him go to the Capitol at Washington—East or West—and he is popular and is recognized by the leading statesmen of the country.

In many instances Mr. Watson has been unjustly criticised, but that is true of most men who forge their way to the front. Watson is a good campaigner and organizer and he is said to possess a personality similar to that of James G. Blaine. Whether Mr. Watson will ever be a candidate for President on the Republican ticket or not, it is safe to say that Watson is not a "dead one" and that we are sure to hear from him, for it is hard to keep a good man down.

ters, two of which did not vote. The other one swore himself in.

In precinct 4, with voting booths at Spurrier's music store, 195 out of 240 polled had been cast soon after noon. Six challenges were made by the "drys," four of which were successful. One man swore himself in and another was sworn in.

Out of a possible vote of 523 in precinct 5, which voted at Mrs. Isaac Ford's corner of Sexton and Fourth streets, 378 had been cast. This is the factory precinct and much of the voting was done during the noon hour. The "drys" made six challenges.

At precinct 6, which voted at Irvin's garage, corner of Tenth and Main streets, 178 votes had been cast a few minutes after one. There 211 on the poll books. No challenge had been made at that time.

Making Customers vs. Making Sales

We like to make sales— but we like better to make friends. We never could see the profit in a sale that cost a customer.

We think of this every time we buy goods. We keep it in mind every time we make a sale. All our salespeople are trained to the same policy—"It is better to lose a sale than to lose a customer's confidence."

That is why we never have goods too cheap to be safe.

And that is why we are making new customers daily—and keeping them.

We love to give bargains as much as you love to get them. It's a part of our duty to you to sell goods as low as we can and to quote special prices whenever possible.

Bargains

But it is our greater duty to you to see to it that neither we nor you shall be tempted by a low price to buy anything that isn't worth having.

The true measure of a bargain is quality—not price. It's what you get—not what you pay, that counts.

Bargains here are genuine; true, sound, perfect plums that occasionally drop from the tree of trade.

They are always goods that are truly worth more at the time you buy. Not merely goods that at one time might have been more, and are never goods that are made expressly to sell cheap.

VERY HEAVY VOTE IS CAST TODAY

Records Show Three-Fourths of
Number Polled Were in by
One O'clock.

ELECTION DAY VERY QUIET

"Drys" Make 21 Challenges During
The Forenoon—Women Play
Prominent Part.

At one o'clock today three-fourths of the polled vote had been cast in the local option election. The poll books showed a total possible vote of 1652 in the six precincts, and near one o'clock 1266 votes had been cast. This left 386 votes out.

Up until one o'clock twenty-one challenges had been made by the "drys" in all precincts. No challenges by the "wets" were reported. Of the twenty-one, eleven were successful and the challenged voters turned away without voting. The others were either sworn in by a freeholder or themselves.

The weather was a very disagreeable. The day dawned cloudy and damp, and before ten o'clock a slight mist was in the air. By noon rain was falling. The "drys" contended the weather portended victory for them, and the "wets" made the same contention.

There were very few people who would risk any prophecies. The partisans, of course, were claiming victory, but the claims were all discredited. Some persons asserted the vote would result in a "dry" victory by a majority of 250. Other estimated that it would be close "dry" victory. There were many voters who believed the prospects of the "wets" were better than they were a week ago.

The women played an important part in today's election, more prominent than in any previous temperance vote. There were at least a dozen women at each one of the voting places, and in some instances there were as many as thirty. They served hot coffee and sandwiches to all men at the voting places free of charge.

Where no shelter was convenient, many women exposed themselves to the severe weather. At one polling place a tent was erected to keep out the wind and rain, and at another a little shack was built out of lumber.

The women worked vigilantly "electioneering" for "dry" votes. There were many cases where a crowd of women besieged a voter and made a stirring appeal for him to vote "yes." They were out bright and early with the opening of the polls, and vowed to remain until the polls were closed.

A large crowd attended the all-day prayer meeting at the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. A. W. Jamieson presided and women were in the church continuously from early in the morning, and expected to remain until the polls closed. The Rushville Christian Association had charge of the services during the noon hour.

At one o'clock there were 192 votes cast out of a possible 230 in precinct 1, with voting booth at the old Catholic church. The "drys" challenged six. One of them swore himself in, three did not vote and two challenges were withdrawn.

In precinct 2, with a voting place at the court house assembly room, 142 out of a possible 210 shortly after dinner. No challenges were made by either side up to this time.

There were 181 out of 238, which had been polled, cast at the back of the Windsor hotel, which is precinct 3. The "drys" challenged three votes.

WILL PARSONS BE OUSTED TONIGHT?

Rumored This Afternoon That Organization Democrats Will Take
This Step to Gain Point.

IN OUSTING SUPT. A. T. MAHIN

There was a well defined rumor being circulated late this afternoon to the effect that the Democratic organization members of the city council would adopt drastic means at the regular meeting tonight to gain its victory in ousting A. T. Mahin from the superintendency of the water and light plant.

It was reported that the mayor and two Democrats on the council, with the mayor, propose to declare Dr. C. H. Parsons' seat vacant, because of his absence, and elect a man in his place who will answer their beck and call in order that their action in removing Mr. Mahin will not be jeopardized. Many say such a thing would be illegal.

It has been feared by the organization, that, upon the return of Dr. Parsons, he would introduce a motion to remove Frank Brown, the organization's appointee and reinstate Mr. Mahin, and he would be supported by the two Republican members, which would be a majority. It was hinted before the last meeting, when Mr. Mahin was ousted, that the Democrats contemplated declaring Parsons' seat vacant.

NEGRO SENTENCED TO PRISON TERM

Arthur Lowery, Who Stole Valuables
From Harry Cunningham of
Knightstown, Gets 1 to 8 Years.

HE THREATENED TO ESCAPE

After being sentenced to serve from one to eight years in Jeffersonville, on a plea of guilty to the charge of robbery, Arthur Lowery the colored man, threatened to make good an escape from Sheriff Kirk, says the Newcastle Times. It is understood that he has said, in effect, that the sheriff would never deliver him to the prison authorities. That idle boast did not cause the sheriff any uneasiness and he will leave for the prison south tomorrow morning. Lowery is diminutive negro. His feet lacked about four inches of touching the floor while sitting on the witness chair. He stole a watch and money from Harry Cunningham, of Knightstown, last spring and escaped.

Lowery was also fined $25 and disfranchised for three years.

JACKSON'S BILL BECOMES A LAW

Measure Providing For Tax Levy To
Build Agricultural Schools is
Signed by Governor

A UNIFORM TEXT BOOK LAW

Ralston Signs Bill Allowing Earnings of Municipal Plant to be Put in General Fund.

Governor Ralston has signed the bill introduced by Senator Cary Jackson of this city. The bill provides methods by which township trustee may raise money to erect schools in which to teach agriculture and domestic science on petition of a certain number in the township. The bill carried an emergency clause and became effective the instant.

The bill is a companion measure with the vocational bill, which became a law February 22. The provisions of the Jackson bill are duplicated in some respects in the vocational training bill. The bill will allow the trustees to issue bonds for the erection of the schoolhouses and levy a tax, with the consent of the advisory board, not to exceed 1 per cent. of the total taxable property in the township. An emergency clause is attached to the bill.

The Governor also has signed the Voris house bill, legalizing the issues of highway bonds, issued by county commissioners or ordered sold by county councils, when the purchase price has been paid and received in good faith.

The Governor has also signed the Curtis bill for uniform high school text books. It provides that text books in high schools shall be selected for five-year periods. The state board of education is to sit as a commission to select the books.

The uniform text book idea in high schools, so far as it applies to Indiana, was advanced by Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, and was endorsed by various educational interests of the state. The bill gives the state board power to select single text books in the following subjects: Algebra, geometry, commercial arithmetic, history—United States, ancient, medieval and modern, civil government, physical geography, commercial geography, history of English literature, history of American literature, English composition and rhetoric, Latin, beginning Latin, Latin grammar, prose composition, Caesar, Cicero, Virgil, German grammar.

The bill also gives the board power to select four elective text books in each of the following subjects: Botany, zoology, physics, chemistry, agricultural botany. Power is also given the board to select single or elective text books in any additional subjects, whenever any high school curriculum shall include such a subject and the state board believes its use should become state-wide.

The provisions of the old text book law of 1889, which provides similar powers for the state board in regard to common school text books are made to apply in the new act wherever possible. In that law is a provision that specifies that school book companies shall bid on books selected on a basis of furnishing them to the schools of the state for a period of five years. In case the state board is satisfied to continue the use of books longer than five years it may do so.

The governor has also signed the Van Auker bill, increasing the pay of petit and grand jurors from $2 a day to $2.50 a day, with 5 cents a mile for each mile necessarily traveled in attending the jury sessions.

Another bill, signed by the governor,

CASE TO RECOVER BOND DISMISSED

Suit Against Will Bainbridge, Former
Sheriff Thrown Out of Court
by Prosecutor.

BROUGHT BY JAMES BINGHAM

Grand Jury Found There Was No
Case Against William Hodgkin
For Vote Selling.

A change of venue was taken in two damage cases which were to have been tried today. A change of venue was granted by Judge Megee in the case of the Enterprise Milling company against the Big Four railway and in the case of Rardin against the Big Four. The county to which the cases will be sent has not been made known by the court. A continuance was granted in the case of James Forbes against the commissioners for the improvement of a highway in Ripley township. The case was taken to the circuit court on an appeal from the commissioners court.

A case which has been pending in court since December 31, 1910, was dismissed by Prosecutor Smith this morning. It was the case of the State of Indiana on the relation of Charles H. Kelso, Thomas J. Humes and Merrill S. Bail, as members of the board of commissioners, against William Bainbridge and his bondsman, A. L. Winslip, A. L. Aldridge, George Havens and Charles A. Frazer.

The case was brought by James Bingham, who was attorney general at that time and was based on the report of the State Board of Accounts which alleged that Bainbridge had misappropriated certain fees while sheriff of this county. The complaint asked $5,000 which was the amount of Bainbridge's bond. Mr. Bainbridge was elected sheriff at the November election in 1902. The other men named in the complaint as defendants along with Bainbridge furnished his bond in the sum of $5,000.

The complaint alleged that Bainbridge while sheriff collected $645.36 in fees which was never accounted for to the board of accountants. Prosecuting attorney dismissed the case after a conference with Attorney General Honan. Mr. Smith was advised that the state could not recover in the suit and the statutes of limitation applied.

The case against William (Jot) Hodgkin, colored, charged with selling his vote was also dismissed by the prosecutor. The grand jury reported that it had investigated the case and found no evidence on which an indictment could be returned. Hodgkin was arrested at the November election on an affidavit filed by Ernest Mull who alleged that he saw Hodgkin receive money while in the Republican headquarters. Hodgkin was arraigned before Mayor Black and waived preliminary hearing.

GRANDDAUGHTER DIES.

Francis Edith McCready, age eight months, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Price, 318 West Tenth street, is dead at the home of her parents; Mr. and Mrs. Otto McCready, in Connersville. Mr. Price was at the child's bedside several days before its demise. The infant was never very strong.

DAMAGE CASE SETTLED.

Newcastle Courier: The suit of Myrtle Russell, who was thrown from a horse on the merry-go-round owned by George Vary of Knightstown, in the summer of 1910, was dismissed on her attorneys. A settlement was made out of court.

WILL PLAY TITLE ROLE

Miss Louise Mauzy to Star in I. U.
Amateur Production.

Miss Louise Mauzy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Mauzy of this city, will play the title role in "Merely Mary Ann," an amateur production which will be staged by Strut and Fret, the dramatic organization of Indiana university where Miss Mauzy is a student. Miss Mauzy's ability has been recognized apparently, from the fact that she had been selected for the leading role. The cast is large and includes many young people living in this part of Indiana.

MANILLA BOY IN REGULAR ARMY DIES

Harry Kuntz, Age 21, Expires at Columbus, O., After Short Illness
With Measles.

FUNERAL WILL BE TOMORROW

Harry Kuntz, age twenty-one years, a resident of Manilla, died of measles at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday according to word received by relatives there.

He was in the regular army service and had been at the Columbus barracks for the past few weeks. He enlisted at Indianapolis, January 27, 1913, and was immediately sent to the barracks for training. He had been there only a short time when he fell ill of the measles. He had almost recovered from the measles when he suffered a relapse and later double pneumonia developed. His relatives knew of his critical condition and his step-mother, Mrs. Peter Kuntz, and his half-brother, Dale Brooks, of Manilla, were at his bedside when the end came. He is survived, in addition, by a step-sister, Mrs. William Carwine, and a step-brother, Trook Kuntz.

The funeral services will be held at the Manilla Christian church tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock, with the Rev. E. E. Kuntz of Colfax, Ind., officiating. Burial will be made in the German cemetery, four miles south of Manilla. The body was brought to Manilla today.

MEMBER OF BOARD.

CONTRACT FOR PAVING IS LET

Perkins Street Job Goes to DeGolder
& Co. of Seymour for $40,844.44.

BOARD HAD 3 AWARDS TO MAKE

Bruce Graham Tar Binder Road Contract Given to Walker & McMahon For $12,740.

About four o'clock this afternoon the commissioners awarded the contract for paving Perkins and parts of adjacent streets with brick to DeGolder & Co., for $40,844.44. Metropolitan brick will be used.

The contract for the Bruce Graham tar binder road was given to Walker & McMahon of Fortville for $12,740. The kind of binder is specified.

The commissioners had three contracts to award this afternoon, and the auditor's office was crowded with contractors from all parts of the state. Thirteen bids were submitted for the Perkins street paving, four on the Thornburg bridge contract and six for the Bruce Graham tar bound road.

The estimates on the paving contract were for many different kinds of brick. The bid with which Metropolitan brick would be used in each case was the highest. This is the quality of brick used on both paving jobs that have been done here.

The following were made on Perkins street, the Metropolitan bid being taken; McKinsey Construction Co., $46,754; Poppiere & Co., $43,140; Daniels, Litz & Douglas, $43,700; Kirkpatrick, $44,500; Miller—on Indiana brick only—$38,295; McGraw & Clinton, $41,288; Torrence, $43,110; Field & Bell, $42,936; Palmer, Moore & Co., $42,489; Adams Construction Co., $46,492; Groat & Gudge, $41,850; DeGolder & Co., $40,844; Taber & Hulihan—any brick—$41,987.

The following bids were made on the Graham road, the highest bids being taken as each contractor made different estimates for the use of different kind of binder: Colter & Son, $12,827; Harry McKinsey, $18,821; Ohio Construction Co., $12,095; Fry & Co., $12,700; Walker & McMahon, $12,793; George Stevens, $12,740.

Four bids were submitted on the Thornburg bridge, which is near the Lon Stewart farm, as follows: National Concrete Co., $10,749; Burke Construction Co., $10,650; Cleary & Knert—bid by lineal feet—; Ber Construction Co., $10,650; Cleary

The commissioners this morning met as the Rush county board of finance. They reported that the

The Power of the Press As An Educator

A great man declared that no hours of his day were better employed or more enjoyable than those which brought him in close touch with people in all walks of life.

Of course, he referred to the hours spent in reading the daily newspaper. The newspaper brings you in touch with people the world over and with the affairs of every country.

Read your newspaper carefully tonight and every night. Discuss its varied subjects at the table, in the evening, or whenever the occasion presents itself. The daily newspaper, with its many excellent features, affords a splendid post-graduate course for grown-ups and gives the children more general information in one evening than they are apt to learn at school in many days.

It will also pay you to read the advertisements closely and constantly every day, for they contain valuable information of new goods and opportunities to economize.

DE LA BARRA DID BIG PUBLIC WORK

Was Thought Most Popular Man In Mexico.

ONCE AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

Man Who Got Big Recognition In Recent Revolt a Great Student of South American Governments—Mexico City a Scene of Ruin—Priests and Nuns Do Splendid Work.

Francisco Leon de la Barra, who was recently again placed at the head of Mexican affairs, is best known in this country as Mexican ambassador to the United States, a post he held from 1909 to 1911, being called home in March of the latter year to become minister of foreign affairs in President Diaz's cabinet.

Shortly afterward, following President Diaz's withdrawal, he became provisional president of Mexico. As ambassador at Washington he made many friends in this country. He was on intimate terms with President Taft and Secretary Knox and was in their confidence concerning the mobilization of United States troops on the Texas frontier.

He was born in 1863, received his education at the College of the City of Mexico and upon completing his studies there took up the law and was admitted to the bar. His specialty was international law, and his first important work after he entered the foreign affairs office was the negotiation of various treaties with foreign powers, notably one of commerce and navigation with Holland and one of extradition with Italy.

He was made a member of the Federal Congress in 1891 and remained there until 1896. As president of the international law committee of the Pan-American Congress, which met in Mexico City in 1901, he was the leading advocate of the measure for the compulsory adjustment of money claims.

He was Mexico's delegate to the Pan-American Congress in Rio de Janeiro in 1906 and to the peace conference at The Hague in 1907.

As envoy to all the republics on the Atlantic coast of South America he was said to have achieved a wonderful knowledge of Latin-American affairs. He represented his country in the Netherlands and in Belgium before being sent as ambassador to the United States.

Senor de la Barra was known in Washington for his pleasing manners and the fluency and correctness of his French and English.

Hundreds of Homeless.

There was no estimating the number of homeless people suddenly reduced to misery in Mexico City. After leaving their homes destroyed by cannon they had no places of refuge save the churches. The fathers of the church had opened the sanctuary to the distressed. By the time daylight came on the sixth day at least 10,000 people, mostly women and children, were sleeping or praying in them. The churches of San Jose de los Naturales, Santa Vera Cruz, San Francisco, La Concepcion, La Batvanera, Santa Caterina de Sena, Jesus Maria and many more were crowded with the miserable. It is estimated that 3,000 persons fell in the week of fighting. A big proportion were noncombatants.

The charity of the priests went part way toward alleviating suffering and hunger. The Catholic sisters nursed sick and injured women, while brothers of the orders and the priests provided coffee, beans and the ever necessary cigarettes.

Daylight exposed the dreadful ruin that had been wrought after five days of tremendous cannonading in the center of a city of 500,000 people. From the great national palace on the east to the legislative palace and the Colonia Roma (where the American embassy is located) on the west and from the Church of San Hipolito on the north to the Belem prison on the south a territory containing the most beautiful streets and the finest public and business buildings of the capital showed signs of wreckage, and in the Charles IV. square many houses have been dismantled or broken to pieces.

Streets Seem Tornado Swept.

A score of streets appear as if they had been swept by a tornado. Mounds of wreckage and debris in which lie the bodies of human beings and of horses offend the senses. Many of the streets are impassable. The incessant storm of lead and iron has wrecked the electric lighting. The telephone service is practically ruined.

There is no business whatever. The banks have been closed for days. The public markets are deserted. Even the general postoffice is shut, many of the employees having been drafted into the federal army. But the greatest menace of all is that of pestilence. Nothing whatever has been done by the troops of either side to protect the city from plague.

More than 1,000 American citizens were quartered at the American embassy or in private houses, many unfurnished, hired by Ambassador Wilson. The Americans have been active in caring for other foreign residents. In the sudden hegira of late Wednesday evening, when all of the automobiles were hired.

NEWCOMERS GIVEN A WARM WELCOME

First Visit of the Wilsons to the White House.

Washington, March 4.—For the first time in their lives President Elect and Mrs. Wilson entered the White House last evening. It was only for a few minutes, though, to pay their respects to President and Mrs. Taft.

The visit of the incoming president and his wife to their future home was made about an hour after they had arrived in Washington, and had received an enthusiastic official welcome. The call had been prearranged. President Taft at a few minutes after 6 o'clock sent one of the White House automobiles with Colonel Spencer S. Cosby, his military aide, in it, to the Shoreham to get the Wilsons. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson lost no time in entering the White House when the auto whisked them up to the main entrance. Very few persons recognized the incoming president and his wife in their drives to and from the executive mansion, but they were greeted warmly by the crowd in the lobby of the Shoreham.

The special train bearing the president elect and the members of his party arrived in Washington at 4 o'clock. They delayed leaving the train until the 600 Princeton university students who were acting as their escort had debarked and formed themselves in two long lines from the entrance to the station half way back along the length of the train. Crowds let go with cheers the moment the president elect appeared. Mr. Wilson acknowledged the greeting with many waves of his new silk hat.

John A. Wilson, an uncle of the president elect, had engaged the entire fourth floor of the hotel for the accommodation of the Wilson family, and from the time of Mr. Wilson's arrival until he left to pay his respects to President Taft the fourth floor was a very busy place.

It was after midnight when the president elect turned in at the Shoreham for his last night, for at least four years, as a private citizen.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Dispatches to the state department indicate that the trend in Mexico is now toward rapid improvement of conditions in that country.

The government has filed suit in the United States district court of New York for the dissolution of the American Coal Products company and subsidiary corporations, known as the coal tar trust.

One of President Taft's last official acts was to remove from office two members of the United States board of general appraisers located at New York, Thaddeus S. Sharrett and Roy N. Chamberlain, because of malfeasance in office.

Near Lexington, Ky., Silas Williams, a sixteen-year-old negro, attempted to assault the wife of Lee Moffett, his employer. Her aunt, Mrs. Susan Black, came to her assistance and was killed by the negro, who then set fire to the house. Williams is in jail.

CHIROPRACTIC

KI-RO-PRAK-TIC

This Science has proven that LIFE and HEALTH of man depend upon the transmission of life and health impulses, from the brain, by nerves which extend down within the spinal column and out to all parts of the body. And that these nerves may become pinched where they pass through the foramina, small holes, between the vertebrae. The vertebrae becoming subluxated, slightly misplaced, close the foramina more or less and pressing on the nerves hinder transmission of impulses from the brain to some part or parts of the body which become diseased as a result. The CHIROPRACTOR locates and adjusts these subluxated vertebrae and the nerves being no longer pinched. Innate Nature in the brain is enabled to send the necessary impulses to restore function and health and remove diseased conditions.

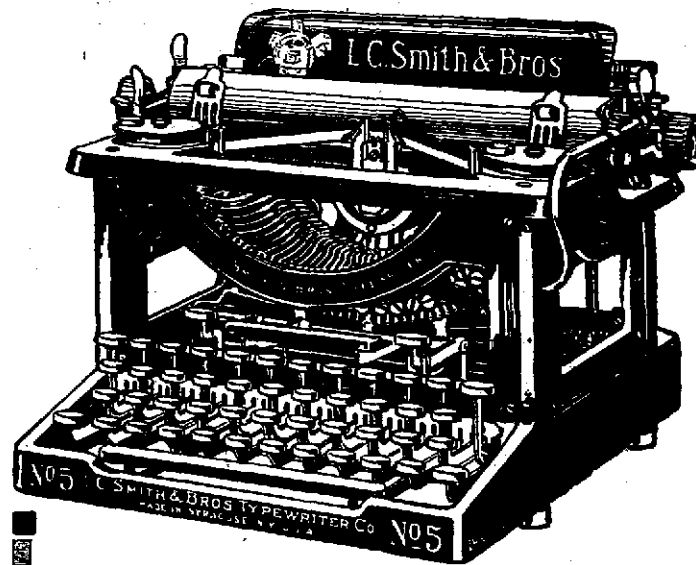

I do not treat Effects, or use Medicine, Surgery, Osteopathy, Massage, Magnetic Healing, Suggestive Therapeutics, Christian Science or any methods used by others except the Chiropractor who uses his hands only to locate and adjust subluxations.

Most surgical cases yield to Chiropractic without use of knife, especially Appendicitis. Fevers usually yield in from one to thirty minutes. Investigate and learn the cause of your disease. It will cost you nothing for Spinal Analysis of your case.

LASSO FOR ENGLISH POLICE.

Authorities of Hull to Send Twenty Men to New Mexico.

The police authorities of Hull, England, are seriously considering sending men to the western part of America to take lessons in the cow country in the use of the lariat. A cow puncher has recently been in Hull giving exhibitions, and the police have been so much impressed that they have decided that it will be a good thing to have a number of their men trained to use the lasso, which, it is believed, will prove of value in saving drowning persons, stopping runaway horses, catching thieves and pickpockets and saving life at fires.

Twenty men have been selected from the Hull constabulary to go to America. It is expected to have them there in time for the spring roundup on Bar Seven ranch, at Albuquerque, New Mexico. The experiment is being watched with much interest by the London police, who are considering adopting it for the regulation of motor traffic if it proves successful at Hull.

FAMILY MOVES INTO SEWER.

Evicted From Home, Man Takes Brood to Strange Abode.

Paul Hatin, his wife, sister and five little children were evicted from their home for nonpayment of rent, and early that day they moved their belongings into one of the main sewers in the heart of Paris.

City workmen had left the traps open while away at breakfast and Hatin with ropes lowered a bed, bedding, cook stove and other household belongings into the sewer.

When the workmen returned they found Mme. Hatin preparing breakfast in the sewer. They would not allow the family to camp there, but the workmen bought milk for the little Hatins and gave Hatin money enough to allow him to get a room. Hatin said he had tried in vain to obtain aid from the authorities and was at his wits' end when he espied the open sewer.

Credit Where Credit's Due.

Praise of William Howard Taft, the outgoing president, who today gave over the reins of the government to Woodrow Wilson, in the columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer, an opposition newspaper, is, of course worthy.

The Enquirer sees fit to pay tribute to the achievements of the man who steps down, the man who was, during the last campaign, the subject of as much railery and unjust criticism as was possibly as any other man who ever held that high executive office.

"His qualities as he grew to manhood," says the Enquirer, "were solid rather than brilliant, but they were combined in his make-up with a disposition so kindly and genial, and with an integrity so unassailable, that he was early selected to fill positions of trust and responsibility."

The Enquirer reviews his successful career in the public's service on the bench, as governor-general of the Philippines, as a member of Roosevelt's cabinet, and then adds: "Called home to enter Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet, he became one of its most popular and efficient members, and was elected his chief's successor by a great popular majority."

"It is too early," continues the Enquirer, "to make a critical estimate of his administration. That it has achieved great things cannot be disputed, and had it not been harassed and what it has accomplished obscured by the smoke of internal party dissensions, it would be generally conceded to have originated and put into effect more useful and really progressive measures than any other single Administration up to now. History will so record, and it is safe to anticipate as its verdict that Mr. Taft has been, while one of the unluckiest in the time and circumstances of his tenure, one of the best, most high-minded and successful of our long line of presidents."

Of course, during the last campaign, the Enquirer would never have admitted that there was anything of good in the "dibolical" Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, but listen now to what the Enquirer has to say: "The Payne-Aldrich tariff, in spite of all attacks on it, secured an average reduction of 8 per cent. created a Tariff Board and a Court of Customs Appeals, laid a corporation tax, gave the Philippines fair treatment and changed a deficit to a surplus. It came at an unfortunate psychological moment, when insurgency was in the air, and had Mr. Taft vetoed it there would have been a majority instead of a minority of his party against him. Whatever may be thought of the reciprocity treaty, and it was probably a political mistake at the time, it was a great achievement to get it through the Senate, as was the negotiation or arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France.

"The Sherman law has been enforced impartially and effectively, and for the first time offending officials have been given jail sentences. A Bureau of Mines was established, the procedure in Courts simplified and expedited, the Panama Canal pushed to completion, Mexico and the Central American States and Cuba handled with great tact and forbearance, and at the same time with firmness. New and valuable treaties have been negotiated, postal banks and a parcel post established, the Civil Service greatly improved

"Further, Mr. Taft has waged effective war on white slavery, has improved the administrative methods of the Government, has suggested and urged cheap loans for farmers, has advocated the adoption of a rational system for river and harbor expenditures, has created a commission to investigate the issue of stocks and bonds, and frauds at custom houses and by use of the mails have been enormously decreased. His vetoes of ill-considered, hasty tariff legislation and of the immigration bill showed high courage, and his judicial appointments have been of the first order. It has been said of Mr. Taft that because he has advocated measures without reference to their political effect or to his own personal fortunes he is not a good politician. History will set it down to his credit. Take it altogether, it is a remarkable record of unselfish, conscientious, laborious services and of statesmanlike, constructive achievement."

ASSESSORS ARE ON THE JOB NOW

Acting on Strict Instructions Regarding Their Duty as Included in State Board Letter.

GOVERNMENT BONDS AS CASH

All Classes of Personal Property Taken at Three-Fourths of Cash Value.

The township assessors are now diligently engaged in assessing property and they have ninety days to complete the task. They began work yesterday, after a meeting here Saturday with the county assessor, John F. Moses, who instructed them as to how to proceed and read a letter from the state board of tax commissioners.

The instructions say that it was recently decided that where government bonds had been loaned to banks by firms or individuals, wherein the bank issues to the depositor or lender of such bonds, a receipt, agreeing to return on demand, or at a certain time, government bonds of equal amount of value, the bank agreeing to pay for the use of such bonds, of certain agreed rate of interest, say 1½ per cent, besides the interest such bonds draw regularly, the receipts for the bonds are equal to certificates of deposit and are taxable. The board held that the bonds in reality become the property of the bank and part of its assets, the former owner holding simply a certificate as any other depositor.

Another rule which will be followed this year pertains to the method of assessing all classes of personal property. The state board has ordered that property shall be assessed at full cash or market value and then one-fourth of the amount be deducted. This places all property upon a seventy-five per cent, basis of taxation.

Heretofore different classes of property have been assessed upon a specified scale, and the assessors could use their own judgment in placing the value upon the particular article before them. County Assessor Moses said that the new rule would make little difference here as personal property had been assessed upon the seventy-five per cent, basis for several years. The board decided to adopt this plan of assessing personal property in order to approach an equalization of the present assessment of real estate.

In order to get the property in all counties assessed upon the seventy-five per cent, basis the state board has sent out the following stinging notices to the assessors:

"If personal property of all kinds in your county, including banks and other corporations is not assessed as above indicated, this board will feel it is positively necessary this year to raise all the personal property of your county to make equal to the counties that have followed the above rule."

JACKSON'S BILL BECOMES A LAW

nor, was the Traylor bill permitting cities and towns owning municipal plants to turn over balances, accruing from the operation of such plants, to the general funds of such cities at the end of the year.

The bill provides that the treasurer of the city or town shall keep a separate account of each of the revenues, accruing from the operation of the public utilities and "any surplus remaining in such fund or funds at the close of any year and not needed for the payment of employees, general running expenses, improvements, repairs to any such works, or debt, may be appropriated by the common council or the board of trustees of any such city or town for the general funds of any such city or town; provided, however, that no transfer of such funds shall be made so long as a bonded debt against said works remains in whole or part."

The law applies here in Rushville, since conditions referred to in the measure exist here.

The governor has signed the bill by Representative Fleming, providing penalties for any one who maliciously or mischievously poisons or kills or injures with a deadly weapon, horses, mules, goats, sheep or hogs. The penalty provided is a fine in any sum not exceeding $500, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail, not exceeding one year; or imprisonment in the state prison for a period of from one to eight years. The provision permitting imprisonment in the state prison is a new one, the remainder of the bill being a re-enactment of the act of 1905. The bill carries no emergency clause.

The McCabe bill authorizing township trustees and school trustees of incorporated towns to continue high schools for a longer time than the term of the elementary schools has been approved. It contains an emergency clause, and therefore is now in effect. In the event the school authorities deem it unwise or inexpedient to continue the term of the elementary schools for the period required for a commissioned or certified high school they are authorized to continue a non-commissioned, commissioned or certified high school for a term not to exceed that required for the commissioned high school.

Another step in the trading stamp controversy, which has become one of the most spirited of the legislative session, was taken yesterday when the House advanced the Gelts bill from the Senate to third reading by adopting the minority report favoring passage of the bill without amendments. Without a dissenting vote the minority report was substituted for the majority, but lack of opposition apparently was due to the fact that leaders in the fight against the bill misunderstood the question before the House.

Representative Weisman, chairman of the committee on judiciary, led the fight for amendments to the bill to permit merchants to give cash to the amount of two-thirds of the cash value required to be printed on trading stamps and to permit them to refuse to cash trading stamps in less amounts than $2.00.

Representative Thornton made a spirited speech against amendment of the bill, declaring that the owner of a $300,000 hotel in Louisville boasts today that that hotel was built by the people of New Albany and Jeffersonville, this man having conducted a trading stamp concern in southern Indiana. Mr. Thornton described the trading stamp as a parasite upon the Indiana mercantile business.

SUES C. H. & D. FOR $12,000 DAMAGE

Railroad Commission Files Action Because of Failure to Install Block Signal System.

ROAD VIOLATES AN ORDER

Unlawfully and Wrongfully Since January First, It is Charged.

Suit to recover $12,000 from the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad Company because of its failure to install an automatic block signal system on its tracks between Glenwood, Ind., and the Ohio state line was brought yesterday in the Marion county circuit court by the railroad commission of Indiana.

It is charged that since January 1, 1913, the company has unlawfully and wrongfully operated its trains between the named points in violation of the law. The company was to have installed such system by January 1, it is alleged, and no extension of time from that date has been granted the company by the commission.

The law stipulating that railroad companies shall install block signal systems provides that if a railroad company fails to comply with the law a penalty of $1,000 a week shall be forfeited by the company for the time the company operates its trains in violation of the law.

The C., H. & D. wreck in Irvington,

November 13, 1912, which cost sixteen lives, occurred on the track between Glenwood and Indianapolis. The indictments against the officials of the road, returned by the Marion county grand jury, were based on the theory that the company had failed to comply with the law providing for the installation of block signals on that part of the road where the wreck occurred.

It later developed that the railroad commission had approved the manual block system in use on that part of the road until January 1, 1913. Frank E. Gavin, who brought the suit for the commission, said the matter of recovering a penalty for that part of the road between Indianapolis and Glenwood would not be taken up at this time.

FOUND IN ROAD, FROZEN

Mrs. Calista Modlin of Dunreith is in Serious Condition.

Mrs. Calista Modlin, age 70 years, was found unconscious on the National Pike Sunday, by Alva McFarlan. The aged woman was almost frozen to death when found. Physicians were called and an examination showed that she was perhaps suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. There is no means of knowing how long she had laid out in the intensely cold weather, as she lives alone. Her face and hands on Monday showed that the flesh was at least badly frost bitten, if indeed not frozen. She is in no condition to talk of her experience. Frank Modlin, her son, was called from Spiceland. She is resting fairly well today.

TWO WILLS ARE FILED FOR PROBATE

Henry Rees Leaves His Estate to Three Children, According to Codicil Attached.

TERM OF MILLER INSTRUMENT

The wills of Henry Rees, who died at his home east of Fairview Sunday, and James Miller, of the Glenwood community, who died last week, have been admitted for probate in the Fayette circuit court. The Comersville News says the will of Mr. Rees was written down in 1894, and provided that, at the testator's death, his whole estate should go to his wife. At her death, divers provisions were to become effective. Mrs. Rees passed away three years ago, thus making that feature of the will inoperative.

A codicil attached to the main instrument, under date of September 9, 1910, makes clear the desire of Mr. Rees. It is that all his estate, real and personal, is to be divided equally among his three children, George Rees, John Rees and Mrs. Gillespie. Joseph Wiles is made executor.

The other will is that of James Miller. It gives the whole estate to Isabelle G. Miller, a daughter, under the stipulation that she shall give $500 each to Roy and Walter Shannon, grandsons, when they come of age; and that she shall give to another daughter, Mary Little, $2,000. It case of Miss Miller's predecease the whole estate was willed to the grandsons and the other daughter. William Miller, an adopted son, is made executor of the instrument.

TIME FOR SCHOOLS TO CLOSE IS NEAR

County Board of Education Fixes Dates and Names Time of Semi-Final Examinations.

SOME WILL CLOSE THIS MONTH

At the regular monthly meeting of county board of education in the county superintendent's office yesterday, dates for the semi-final examinations were fixed and dates for the commencements in the township schools were discussed, but were not fixed definitely. The trustee have the privilege of naming the day for the latter events, but they always consult one another so as to avoid conflicts.

It was decided that practically some of the township schools would close the last week of this month. There are several instances where this rule will not be obeyed: where there is more than a seven-months school year and where there has been some delay due to infectious diseases and other causes.

All pupils who fail in one or two studies in the semi-final eight year examinations will be given another chance in the May examinations. The Washington examination March 15; Glenwood in Union, May 17; and the following on April 19: Ripley, Gings in Union, Posey, Walker, Orange, Anderson and Noble. The other dates have not been set.

BENEFIT SHOW.

Dr. C. H. Gilbert's class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school will give a benefit show at the Palace theater Wednesday night. The proceeds will be used for charity purposes.

WEATHER.

Snow in north and rain south portion this afternoon. Cloudy and colder tonight. Wednesday, fair. Colder south portion.

POSEY PROPERTY.

Frank Wilson has purchased the old Posey property in Main street, the consideration being $6,200. Ab Denning purchased the Posey farm of 200 acres and R. L. Innis bought the Ab Denning place just north of the Posey farm at $150 an acre.

grimly. "Well, then, I've tried my best to bribe your people, and I've got little out of it. I've tried the foreman, the night watchman, and everybody else. I've had a dozen of your workmen slugged for scabbing, and four or five of them shot, one or two at least, for a good, permanent funeral. And I paid the funeral expenses! You didn't know that? Well, that's the truth of it!"

"Well, what do you know about that?" gasped Standley, aghast.

"I know a good deal about my Christian friend," said the slender man relentlessly. "I can tell you what you already know, that your motors are dismantled to-day. I can tell you also that there's a very good chance that the secret we've been after is in the hands of one man, and he's holding it up for some reason best known to himself. I've got nothing on him! I can also tell you that if he won't give up—though why he won't I can't imagine—it's possible we can work out a receiver of our own elsewhere, without him."

"Well, what does he want?" This from the old man.

"That's the everlasting mystery and puzzle of it. He doesn't want anything, so far as I can learn. There's some factor in him that I can't get my hands on, try the best that I can. Not that I don't expect to break you wide open eventually, my friends."

"Now why do you want to do that?" asked the older financier. "Why not join in with us and break the bone-head?"

"Fine! But how can we do that? He's sitting pretty tight. The man's played in fine luck. I admit I rather admire him."

"Dah, that's the way with all the new ones; they all play in luck for a time. Each Napoleon has his boom, but after a time boom values shrink—they always do. This chap'll find his level when we get ready to tell him."

"For instance?"

"Well, for instance, then! He's sitting there with a small margin of control in the International. That gave him his start, and he's wise enough to hang on to that. But it didn't give him his money—he's only made dividend money out of that; and who cares for dividend money? He doesn't own control in the Guatemala Oil Company, does he? He's made a lot out of Arizona and Utah coppers, but he doesn't own control in a single company there, does he? He's in with the L. P., but he borrowed to get in. He's made a big killing in Rubber, but he doesn't own any Rubber control of his own, does he? Now, you follow him out in every deal he's made—iron, copper, steel, oil, rails, timber, irrigation, utilities, industrials—and you'll find he's simply banking on his inside information and on his outside credit. Who gave him both of those things?—Why, we did, didn't we? All right! Suppose we withdraw our credit. What happens?"

They went silent now, and grouped a little closer about the tabouret which stood between them. The old man's voice went on evenly, with no excitement. Their conversation attracted the attention of none in the wide lounge room, where large affairs more than once had been discussed—even the making of Senators to order. "I'll tell you what happens," the old man resumed. "He quits using us for a stalking horse, and he comes down to his own system. He's spread out. Banks are all polite, but—well, he has to put up collateral; and then some more. If he doesn't want to put up International, he's apt to find that a bunch of automobiles is poor property when sold at twenty per cent. their cost. He turns off two or three butlers, but still that doesn't serve for margins. The market doesn't suit his book any more."

"He's discovering now the truth of something my old friend Emory Storrs used to say—Emory always was in debt, or wanted to be, and says he: 'There's no trouble about prosperity in this country; there's plenty of money—the only trouble is in the confounded scarcity in collateral.' Well, he goes over to this young man, who is standing out for some reason best known to himself, and he tries to get him to come through, and he doesn't come through. What's left? Why, the diamond lightnings of the Lady of the Lightning—and his International Power stock."

"Meantime, all this thing can't be kept entirely secret; that is to say, the market part of it can't be. But we sit tight, all of us. We hold our regular directors' meetings of the International board, and we smile, and look pleasant. We don't know a thing about his hot water experiences in the open market. He explains to us why this and that happens, or doesn't happen, in International; and we smile and look pleasant, and we don't know a thing. After a time it's up to him and the Lady of the Lightnings. Something pops! He's up against it, all except his International Power. Then Van, and you, Standley, and you, Ack, and you, and you and I, and all of us—why we're still pleasant as pie to him and we say, 'Well, Mr. John Rawn, if you'd only sell us two or three shares of International, we'd pay you twenty times what it's worth—but it's very much cheaper now—by reason of Van's competing company!'"

"That's about all, I think!" The others nodded silently. The game was not new to them, and even in its most complicated features might have been called simple, with resources such as theirs. If these resources had made Rawn, they could make him. It was all in the day's work for them.

"So I'll tell you what we'll do," concluded the old financier after a time. "We'll just let you and Van look around here a little bit and see what more you can learn. You're one of the real directors of International Power to-day, Van. Mr. Rawn is on the minority and the toboggan list, or is going to be there. We'll take the first steps when we see the boys down East. The country's getting right now for a little speculation—things have been dead long enough. There'll be a market. When the market starts, I think you know which way it will go for a certain person I needn't name."

They rose, stood about loungingly for a time, and at length slowly separated, the older man and the ex-director with the pointed beard falling back of the others for just an instant.

"What's the truth about the row, Van?" demanded the old man, laying

a large, pudgy hand on the other's shoulder.

"I don't know, honestly, what it is. I can tell you this much—your factory is closed. Your superintendent, Halsey, has quit his work and left his old residence. Didn't Rawn tell you that?"

"No! What's up now—some trouble with a woman? Wasn't he married to Rawn's daughter?"

"Yes, and she went to live with Papa. Papa had the coin."

"And the superintendent is going the chorus girl route here or in New York?"

"No, sir, not in the least—nothing of the sort. You can't guess where he's gone."

The other shook his head. "Well, I'll tell you then, since you are one of the directors of the International and I'm not! He's gone and taken his other pair of pants and his celluloid collar, and moved over to the North Shore! He's living in the same house with Papa J. Rawn right now—that is to say, he has been for two or three weeks."

"Well, what do you know about that, too?" commented his friend.

"I don't know much about it. As I told you, there's something in here I don't understand. I can't for the life of me figure out that chap Halsey's motives or his moves. But I don't care about him. It's Rawn I'm after—and I'm going to get him!"

MADERO'S FAILURE DUE TO NEPOTISM

He Put 150 Members of His Family In Power.

IS TOOL OF UNSCRUPULOUS

Nation Exploited to Verge of Bankruptcy by the Avaricious Officials. President Ruthlessly Broke His Promises of Relief to Down-trodden Peons—Pledged to Divide Lands.

A man of the highest patriotism and loftiest ideals, both before and during the revolution which he led against Porfirio Diaz in 1910, Francisco I. Madero rapidly developed tyrannical methods with his accession to the presidency of Mexico in the autumn of 1911.

Not alone has Madero failed, it is charged, to keep the pledges he made to the people when he called for their support on the platform of San Luis Potosi, but his administration has been marked by ruthless extravagance, bad politics and nepotism. For the latter the ambition of the members of his family, notably his brother and minister of finance, Gustavo Madero, has been held largely responsible.

Madero Family Seize Offices.

The Maderos as a family opposed the uprising against Diaz, holding that the latter was too strong ever to be overthrown. With Francisco Madero's success, for which the United States was largely responsible, the entire Madero family—and there are more than 150 of them—moved on to Mexico City and appropriated everything in the way of desirable and lucrative offices. The president has been absolutely dominated by his brother Gustavo.

The latter is the direct antithesis of the executive. He is a strong, forceful personality, a man of courage, initiative, cunning and unusual ability. Under his financial management the country in a little more than a year has been brought to the very brink of bankruptcy. It has been charged that the Madero family has become enriched as the country has become impoverished, although his worst enemy has never charged the president himself with being money dishonest.

It is doubtful, however, if any man who ever ruled south of the Rio Grande has been an easier tool in the hands of unscrupulous officials.

Men familiar with the real situation in Mexico predict a long period of disorder before the country settles down again.

Decline of Madero Regime.

The Madero regime has been tottering to its fall for six months. When Senor Calero, late minister to Washington, stated in the Mexican congress recently that he had been lying to the United States government for ten months in telling it that Madero had the malcontents throughout the republic under control he stated what everybody in the City of Mexico and many persons in Washington knew perfectly well.

That Madero was not forced from his place months ago was due to the belief throughout Mexico that the United States was supporting his administration. Much as Mexicans, as a rule, hate Americans, they have a wholesome respect for the United States government.

From the first Madero was an easy target for his enemies. His failure to fulfill the chief pledge contained in the program of San Luis Potosi made him vulnerable. This was the pledge to divide the land among the people when he had conquered Diaz—in other words, to break up the great estates so that the poor man could buy a small plot of land and actually own it.

This was the platform on which Madero went to war and on which he fought his way to victory. From the first he was bitterly opposed by the Cientifico group. The Cientificos are not a party. The word is one applied largely in derision to the great landed proprietors who ruled Mexico with an iron hand in the Diaz regime.

During his time in the presidency Madero has never made a move to break up the great estates. Rebuked for this at different times, his reply has been that he could not do everything at once and that he must have time. The division of the land, however, was something the people had fought for, and they were not patient. Within six months the country was ripe for a revolution against Madero, and the agitators were not slow to take advantage of the situation.

Nation's Financial Woes.

Madero has had a stormy time as president of the republic. When he was elected there was approximately $40,000,000 in the treasury. This fund was exhausted; also a loan of $20,000,000 which Gustavo Madero negotiated abroad. Another loan was being arranged when the present uprising occurred. So to the charge of betraying the masses by failing to put through the land laws was added the charge of extravagance. It is said that more than 100 of Madero's relatives have been holding office under his administration.

Many petty tyrannies have been charged against Madero the last year. He has been accused of trying to arrange the personnel of the legislative bodies to suit himself instead of leaving it to the voters. Methods of this sort smacked too much of the Diaz regime to satisfy the masses.

BOSS OF THE AUTO SHOW

JOHN ORMAN.

Again John Orman is the boss of the Indianapolis Automobile Show to be held at State Fair grounds in the Coliseum buildings and the Annex March 24-29. Orman has always bossed the Indianapolis automobile shows and insists that this year's show will be the biggest and the best.

INDIANA AUTO SHOW

EXHIBIT WILL BE STAGED AT FAIR GROUNDS COLISEUM.

Success of Fall Shows Lead Managers to Pick State Buildings for 1913 Show.

The State of Indiana is interested in the automobile show to be staged by the Indianapolis Automobile Trade Association March 24-29 in the Coliseum and Coliseum Annex at the State Fair grounds.

The automobile shows held during State Fair last year were so successful that certain members of the I. A. T. A. board of directors decided that the fair grounds would be the ideal place for the show.

The directors have been studying the shows at New York and Chicago and they announce that the Indianapolis show, though the last in the national circuit of shows, will be as good as the big ones.

John Orman, show manager in the past, has been put in charge and Joe Kelly, well known Indianapolis newspaperman and automobile publicity and advertising man, has been placed in charge of the show publicity.

The fair grounds site should be ideal, for it will comfortably house all the spectators, all the cars and the trucks. The main show will be held in the coliseum building, which has a floor space available for show purposes of 39,000 square feet. The coliseum will house the automobiles, motorcycles and accessories.

In the annex, directly east of the coliseum, there is additional floor space of 22,000 square feet. This annex will accommodate all the commercial cars. To make the show a unit, the annex will be connected with the Coliseum with an awning sixty feet long.

"The show of last year was a record-breaking one in success and in business done," said Secretary Hunter, "but there is no reason why this show should not be better and bigger. Indianapolis ought to have one of the best shows in the national circuits."

HEAD OF PRESS BUREAU

JOE KELLY.

So far as press matter is concerned, Joe Kelly, head of the press bureau of the Indianapolis Auto Trade Association, is boosting the automobile show by seeing that papers in the State have all the reading matter they can use pertaining to the auto show to be held at the State Fair grounds, March 24-29. Papers outside of Indiana, from San Francisco to Boston, want to hear what the Indianapolis show crowd is doing. The show will be held in the Coliseum and Coliseum Annex buildings.

WHAT INTERVENTION MEANS.

Five years of guerilla warfare extending into the mountain fastnesses of Mexico with an American army of upward of 250,000 necessary is what intervention in Mexico means to the United States, according to the statement of Frederick L. Huidekoper, the military expert.

"The hatred of the Latus for the Anglo-Saxon is intense in Mexico," he said, "and intervention in any form by this country means the welding of all antagonistic forces against one common enemy. The United States takes on her shoulders an enormous task, that of subduing a country where the lines of communication exist only in the settled parts. Three distinct campaigns would have to be waged in north, south and central Mexico to conquer the land. Central Mexico would be the only part of the country in which decisive campaigns could be fought. The others would be a series of long drawn out skirmishes—guerilla warfare in its worst phase.

"The lines of communication are all remote," he said, "and when one point is conquered it will be necessary to maintain a defensive force. This would require an enormous number of men. In order to obtain such an army the militia of course would have to be drafted into service."

WILSON'S VIEWS GIVEN TO NATION

Inaugural Address of the New President.

DEFINES PEOPLE'S DUTY.

First Obligation of Law is to Keep Society Sound by Sanitary and Pure Food Statutes and Measures Determining Conditions of Labor—Task Not Merely One of Politics.

Washington, March 4.—The inaugural address of President Woodrow Wilson is as follows:

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became Democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The senate about to assemble will also be Democratic. The offices of president and vice president have been put into the hands of Democrats. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the Democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things with which we had grown familiar and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives have altered their aspect as we have lately looked critically upon them with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things, which we look frankly upon them, willings to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

Our Model Government.

We see that in many things life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in the diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men and the limitless enterprise of groups of men. It is great also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking forms the beauty and the energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing and contains it in rich abundance.

But the evil has come with the good and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come inextricable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and impotent, scorning to be careful, shamefully prodigal as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly by the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

Duty of Americans Outlined.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to reconsider, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been, "Let every man look out for himself; let every generation look out for itself," while we reared giant machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves. We had not forgotten our morals. We remembered well enough that we had set up a policy which was meant to serve the humblest as well as the most powerful, with an eye single to the standards of justice and fair play, and remembered it with pride.

But we were very heedless and in a hurry to be great.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

Things to Be Accomplished.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered, and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all its sides, financial as well as administrative, holds capital to leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentality of science taken directly to the farm or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; water-courses underdeveloped, waste places unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mine. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy as we should either as organizers of industry, as statesmen or as individuals.

Society's Duty to Itself.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government may be put at the service of humanity in safeguarding the health of the nation, the health of its men and its women and its children, as well as their rights in the struggle for existence. This is no sentimental duty. The firm basis of government is justice, not pity. These are matters of justice. There can be no equality or opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not itself crush or weaken or damage its own constituent parts. The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves. Sanitary laws, pure food laws and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency.

These are some of the things we ought to do and not leave the others undone, the old fashioned, never to be neglected, fundamental safeguarding of property and of individual right. This is the high enterprise of the new day: To lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearth fire of every man's conscience and vision of the right. It is inconceivable we should do this as partisans; it is inconceivable we should do it in ignorance of the facts as they are or in blind haste. We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon, and step by step we shall make it what it should be, in the spirit of those who question their own wisdom and seek counsel and knowledge, not shallow self satisfaction or the excitement of excursions whither they cannot tell. Justice, and only justice, shall always be our motto.

Task Not Merely One of Politics.

And yet it will be no cool process of mere science. The nation has been deeply stirred—stirred by a solemn passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil. The feelings with which we face this new age of right and opportunity sweep across our heartstrings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. We know our task to be no mere task of politics, but a task which shall search us through and through, whether we be able to understand our time and the need of our people, whether we be indeed their spokesmen and interpreters, whether we have the pure heart to comprehend and the rectified will to choose our high course of action.

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here must not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them if they will but counsel and sustain me.

The Drama of London's Fog.

There is a whole world of drama bound up in the chronicles of London's fog. This misty and mysterious visitant, far older than Gog or Magog, which used to visit the watches of the night when the metropolis barely lifted itself out of the surrounding marshes, has a kind of comedy as well as tragedy. Countless murders have been committed under its sheltering cloak, men and women have been waylaid, children have been torn from their mothers and wives from their husbands.—London Strand.

MR. TAFT GOES OUT WITHOUT A REGRET

No Note of Bitterness in His Farewell.

Washington, March 4.—For the first time for twenty-eight years William H. Taft will be a private citizen, when he leaves late today for Augusta. For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Taft has been continuously in the service of the public, and curiously enough the thing he is wondering about most on his departure from the White House is just how it is going to feel to be plain Mr. Taft again after so many years of "Mr. Solicitor General," "Judge," "Governor," "Mr. Secretary," and finally "Mr. President."

"I am not worrying about going out of the presidency," said the president, "but what I am asking myself is how I shall really feel when I retire from office after all these years of service. It is not the prospect of going out, but the morning after I am thinking about most."

There is not a note of bitterness in the Taft farewell. The president has been big enough and generous enough to smother any expression of resentment, even as against Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. The philosophy of life has taught him that harboring of resentment is not worth while.

THE PRESIDENT'S CABINET

New Executive Has Sent Names of Advisers to Senate.

Washington, March 4.—President Wilson this afternoon will send to the senate the names of his cabinet. From an authoritative source it was learned that the following is the slate:

Secretary of State, William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

Secretary of the Treasury, William G. McAdoo of New York.

Attorney General, James C. McReynolds of Tennessee.

Secretary of War, Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey.

Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Postmaster General, Albert S. Burleson of Texas.

Secretary of Commerce, William C. Redfield of New York.

Secretary of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane of California.

Secretary of Agriculture, David F. Houston of Missouri.

Secretary of Labor, William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania.

Thomas Ewing Steele, who returned from Canada to Columbus, O., after being ten years a fugitive from the law, to receive sentence for blackmail, has been granted a full pardon by President Taft. Steele has made a fortune in Canada in the newspaper business.

SENTENCE WAS LIGHTENED

Gerbracht Will Have to Serve Only Thirty Days.

New York, March 4.—Ernest W. Gerbracht, former president of the Williamsburg Sugar Refinery, has been taken to jail at Mineola, L. J., where he will serve thirty days confinement.

Gerbracht, who was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government out of sugar duties, was originally sentenced to serve two years and pay a fine of $5,000. President Taft, however, commuted the sentence to thirty days and remitted the fine.

SIX TRUSTEES FILE REPORTS

DOG FUND MONEY ROTATES

Six of the twelve township trustees filed their annual report of the township dog fund, as required by law, in the county auditor's office yesterday. While only half of the reports have been filed, it is apparent that the raids of dogs on sheep during the last year were very costly.

The law requires that each trustee deposit the first Monday in March all money in the dog fund except $100. In case the receipts are not sufficient to pay the damages in one township, then this money is taken from another township where the loss was not so great. If after all the costs have been paid, and there is anything left, it goes into the tuition fund and is prorated out again to the different townships.

The reports show the following:

	Receipts	Expenses
Washington	$273	$190
Orange	292	192
Walker	248.50	241
Noble	217	117
Ripley	301	201
Anderson	262	162

STORE FILLED WITH SMOKE

Stove Checked and Fire Department Was Called.

The fire department was called to the Boxley piano store in West Second street this morning only to find the place filled with coal smoke. The stove had been filled with coal and the dampers closed. No one was in the place at the time and the front door was locked. From the amount of smoke in the place it was first thought that it was on fire and the firemen were compelled to break in at the rear door.

VIEWS WATSON WITHOUT BIAS

Everett H. Thompson of Richmond Pay Tribute to Former Congressman in Newspaper

IS HARD MAN TO KEEP DOWN

Unjustly Criticized, But it is True of Most Men Who Forge Way to Front.

There is one man in Richmond who sees James E. Watson with unbiased eyes. Everett H. Thompson contributes an article to the Indianapolis Star in which he pays tribute to the former congressman's excellent traits and expresses the opinion that he is by no means a "dead one" in the political world. Mr. Thompson says:

I read recently that a boom had been started out in Kansas and some other sections of the country for James E. Watson of Indiana for President in 1916. Such a boom is laughed at by Watson's political enemies and viewed as a joke, but, however we may disagree with Watson politically, we must admit that he is a man of great ability, thoroughly acquainted with all phases of legislation, a brilliant orator and a man of wonderful personality and influence. Mr. Watson makes a wonderful impression in any section of the country he is called. Once while I was at St. Joseph, Mo., a group of men were at the depot to meet Governor Hadley, who at that time was Governor of Missouri. In a conversation there I asked if they ever heard of "Jim" Watson out there? One of the fellows spoke up and said, "Jim Watson! I think he is one of the greatest men in the country today." He is termed a "political rascal" by many Hoosiers, especially from Wayne County and the Sixth Congressional District, but let him go to the Capitol at Washington—East or West—and he is popular and is recognized by the leading statesmen of the country.

In many instances Mr. Watson has been unjustly criticised, but that is true of most men who forge their way to the front. Watson is a good campaigner and organizer and he is said to possess a personality similar to that of James G. Blaine. Whether Mr. Watson will ever be a candidate for President on the Republican ticket or not, it is safe to say, that Watson is not a "dead one" and that we are sure to hear from him, for it is hard to keep a good man down.

VERY HEAVY VOTE IS CAST TODAY

ters, two of which did not vote. The other one swore himself in.

In precinct 4, with voting booths at Spurrier's music store, 195 out of 240 polled had been cast soon after noon. Six challenges were made by the "drys," four of which were successful. One man swore himself in and another was sworn in.

Out of a possible vote of 523 in precinct 5, which voted at Mrs. Isaac Ford's corner of Sexton and Fourth streets, 378 had been cast. This is the factory precinct and much of the voting was done during the noon hour. The "drys" made six challenges.

At precinct 6, which voted at Irvin's garage, corner of Tenth and Main streets, 178 votes had been cast a few minutes after one. There 211 on the poll books. No challenge had been made at that time.

GOES TO INDIANAPOLIS.

Orval Sampson, who has been connected with the county treasurer's office for the past two years, has accepted a position with the Indiana Trust company, Indianapolis, as book keeper and teller and will begin his duties tomorrow. Mr. Sampson will not move to Indianapolis for residence until a future date.

Making Customers vs. Making Sales

We like to make sales—but we like better to make friends. We never could see the profit in a sale that cost a customer.

We think of this every time we buy goods. We keep it in mind every time we make a sale. All our salespeople are trained to the same policy—"It is better to lose a sale than to lose a customer's confidence."

That is why we never have goods too cheap to be safe.

And that is why we are making new customers daily—and keeping them.

We love to give bargains as much as you love to get them. It's a part of our duty to you to sell goods as low as we can and to quote special prices whenever possible.

Bargains

But it is our greater duty to you to see to it that neither we nor you shall be tempted by a low price to buy anything that isn't worth having.

The true measure of a bargain is quality—not price. It's what you get—not what you pay, that counts.

Bargains here are genuine; true, sound, perfect plums that occasionally drop from the tree of trade.

They are always goods that are truly worth more at the time you buy. Not merely goods that at one time might have been more, and are never goods that are made expressly to sell cheap.
